WARREN COUNTY

Under a new law signed by Gov. Shafer, residents of Warren County's second class townships desiring to protest changes in zoning regulations will find the procedure modified somewhat.

The Citizens Committee for Dr. David K. Rice expended over $10,000 in the November general elections as opposed to $505.26 spent by Blain M. Mead. Candidates filed their campaign expenses Thursday.

The Commonwealth may be assisting Warren financially in the $350,000 swimming pool project. The borough was advised yesterday that state officials have received the application for a 50 per cent grant.

THE NATION

By a vote of 56 to 22 the Senate approved a foreign aid appropriation of $2.73 billion. This was $534 million more than the House had allotted, although it was $520 million less than the administration's request for new money. The differences will presumably be ironed out in a Senate-House conference.

Senate-House conferees have reportedly resolved differences in Social Security bills and have agreed upon across-the-board increases of 13 per cent in benefits. Among the other aspects of the Senate-House compromise that are said to be in the agreement is the lifting of the annual earnings subject to Social Security deductions from $6,600 to $7,800.

With President Johnson and Vice President Humphrey leading a list of distinguished mourners, Francis Cardinal Spellman was burned in a crypt at St. Patrick's Cathedral, the center of the See he headed for 28 years. Nine cardinals of the Church were among the concelebrants of the first all-English mass ever held for a Cardinal. Other liturgical changes of the Ecumenical Council were reflected in the service and the presence of Protestant and Eastern Orthodox further reflected an ecumenical spirit.

Sen. Everett Dirksen, the Republican leader who for the most part has been a defender of the administration's Vietnam policy, said that there has been "too little evidence of genuine effort to explore and exploit the diplomatic opportunities" for bringing about peace.

THE WORLD

France is about to end its embargo on arms shipments to Iraq and a number of other Arab countries. The arms embargo for Israel is expected to remain in force. In exchange for her prospective arms shipments, France is gaining a predominant position in the Iraqi oil fields.

The Treasury Department announced a loss of $475 million in gold as a result of the recent surge of gold speculation that followed Britain's devaluation of the pound. The drain, a large part of which was engineered in Paris, was the largest loss ever for a single week. However, President Johnson said the attack on the dollar had been repelled at what he called "relatively small cost in reserves."

SPORTS

Three basketball games and one wrestling match is on tap for county teams tonight. Warren and Youngsville's cagers host two favored clubs, Erie East and Titusville respectively and Sheffield travels to Bradford for a contest with the winless Central Christian Ramblers. Eisenhower's grapplers journey to New York State to meet a revenge-minded Southwestern squad. Page 7.

Youngsville held its first interscholastic wrestling match last night and came out on the short end of 49-11 score against Cassadaga Valley, N.Y. Bob Sedlak and Max Collins put the only points on the scoreboard for the Eagles with pins. Page 7.

A team made up of Warren teachers meet a squad of local lawmen in a benefit basketball game Monday night. Rosters for the contest on Page 6.

Pennsylvania's buck season ends tomorrow and the regular statewide antlerless season will be held next Monday, Tuesday and Saturday. Page 6.

On the national sports scene, USC placed three players on the 1967 AP College All-America team, the two professional soccer teams in the U.S. announced plans to merge and Jim Parker, the Baltimore Colts' veteran All-Pro lineman, retired. Page 6-7.

France Considers Lifting Arms Embargo for Iraq

(c) N.Y. Times News Service PARIS—Authoritative French sources said Thursday that France was on the point of lifting her arms embargo to Iraq and a number of other Arab countries.

Informed French sources said that the embargo would remain in effect against the belligerents in the June war—Israel, the United Arab Republic, Jordan and Syria.

Negotiations on French arms shipments to Iraq have been underway here since the arrival Monday of Gen. Hassan Sabri, deputy chief of staff of Iraqi forces.

The Iraqis are understood to seek delivery of French Mirage V, one of the world's most advanced supersonic fighter bombers as well as transport planes and armored cars.

French officials and other informed sources said today there was no doubt that an agreement on the delivery of some French arms would come out of the discussions with Sabri. Just what part of the Iraqi shopping list would be met was not yet known, however.

In exchange for her prospective arms shipments, France is gaining a predominant position in the exploration and development of Iraq's vast oil resources as well as its important economic advantages.

Two weeks ago a deal was completed giving the government-controlled French oil company Erap the right to seek and produce oil in all those parts of Iraq where no strikes have yet been made.

Another French oil company, the C.F.P. (Compagnie Francaise des Petroles), which is also government-controlled, is favorably placed to win the largest oil prize that the Iraqis have to offer—namely the right to put the north Rumaila field into production. This field, which is estimated to contain one billion tons of oil, has been completely explored but production has not begun.

France is competing against American companies also for a concession to exploit the important sulphur deposits of Misraq, south of Mosul, in northwestern Iraq. Iraq is one of the very few countries in the world where there are large sulphur deposits which could be rapidly put into production.

A former American secretary of the treasury, Robert Anderson, is believed to be in Baghdad bidding for the Misraq concession in the name of American sulphur interests.

The emergence of France as the major petroleum power in Iraq is regarded as the first major reward for President de Gaulle's middle eastern policy, which has been swinging from friendship with Israel to ever stronger support for the Arabs.

Conferees Agree to Hike Social Security Benefits

(c) N.Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON—House and Senate conferees agreed Thursday on an across-the-board increase of 13 per cent in Social Security benefits, according to informed sources.

In compromising differences between Social Security bills passed Aug. 17 by the House and Nov. 22 by the Senate, the conferees committee leaned heavily toward the more conservative House version in this and most other respects.

The House had approved a general increase of 12.5 per cent and the Senate complying fully with the Johnson administration's recommendations, had

Reveal Loss Of $475 Million In Devaluation

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's monetary gold stock dropped this week to its lowest point in 30 years in the wake of the British pounds devaluation and subsequent gold speculation, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York said Thursday.

The gold stock, used mainly to back the dollar, stood at $12.434 billion Wednesday, lowest since $12.433 billion on July 28, 1957.

This is the largest weekly drop on record. In Washington, the Treasury said it had transferred $475 million in gold to its exchange stabilization fund. This is the fund managed by the New York Federal Reserve bank which handles gold transactions with foreign countries. Customarily the countries are not named.

The Treasury said the gold would be used to settle the U.S. share in supporting the London gold market last month and to cover sales made to central banks which asked the Treasury to convert their dollars into gold.

raised the figure to 15 per cent. Other agreements reliably reported to have been reached as the closed-door negotiations continued at a late hour included:

—To raise the minimum monthly benefit of $44 to $55, compared with $50 under the House-approved text and $70—as proposed by the administration—under the Senate version.

—To delete several major Senate amendments for other-wise liberalizing the old age, retirement and disability insurance program.

—To increase the wage base—the amount of annual earnings subject to Social Security taxes—to $7,800, effective next Jan. 1. The base is now $6,600.

Informants said the across-the-board and minimum monthly benefits increases would take effect Feb. 1.

The higher payments in that event would be reflected in the March checks of the 24 million persons now on the benefit rolls.

Foreign diplomats here are convinced that the sulphur concession as well as the Rumaila oil field will go to France if the Iraqi request for French arms is fulfilled. Some of these diplomats expressed the view today that French officials leaked the news.

Viet Cong Ask To Send Representatives to U.N.

(c) N.Y. Times News Service UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Arthur J. Goldberg said Thursday that the National Liberation Front of South Vietnam inquired in September about sending representatives to the United Nations as public spokesmen rather than as diplomats, but had then dropped the effort.

The chief United States delegate maintained that Washington had been prepared to issue visas to two or three members of the Front, which is the political arm of the Viet Cong, "in connection with any United Nations business."

Goldberg emphasized at a news conference that the Viet Cong representatives did not want "status with or at the United Nations" and that the question of access to the General Assembly was not raised in the inquiry.

He said that the U.S. would not object to Viet Cong representation for any "substantive discussion" of Vietnam in the Security Council or in the General Assembly.

Goldberg said the Viet Cong's approach to the U.N. had been made to the Secretariat through an unidentified intermediary and had not disclosed evidence of "a contribution to peace in Vietnam." The purpose of the mission, he said, was "implicit and explicit" in the description of its duties.

The news conference was held as the U.S. delegation prepared to raise the Vietnam issue anew in the Security Council.

Eastern European sources said the Soviet Union would not strenuously oppose inscription of the item on the Council's agenda because it did not have the votes to defeat the U.S. and because, in the view of the possibility of "participation by the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong, it saw the opportunity for a propaganda coup.

Qualified sources said Saturday that the Security Council would invite representatives of both the North Vietnamese government and the Viet Cong to its discussion of Vietnam. Goldberg's disclosure dealt with an earlier attempt by the Viet Cong to send representatives to the U.N.

Goldberg said he spoke for the

Senate Approves $2.73 Billion Foreign Aid Bill

(c) N.Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON — The Senate approved Thursday a foreign aid appropriation of $2.73 billion for the current fiscal year.

The bill, approved 56 to 22, now goes to a House-Senate conferees committee, which will iron out differences between the measures passed by the two chambers.

The effect of the Senate action was to restore many of the cuts voted by the House a month ago. The House appropriation provided $2.196 billion for economic development and military aid, the lowest amount appropriated by either body in the 20-year history of foreign aid programs.

The Senate figure was $534 million above the money ceiling fixed by the House, and according to Senate appropriations committee figures it was $520 million below the administration's request for new money. But it was only $130 million under the Senate-House compromise authorization bill signed by the President nearly a month ago.

The Senate acted with unusual speed in bringing up the money bill and putting it to a vote. The combined leadership decided to sidetrack the controversial education bill long enough to bring the foreign aid measure to a final vote.

This decision amounted to a determination by both Democratic and Republican leaders that a floor fight over provisions of the money amounts recommended by the appropriations committee should be avoided in furtherance of the Dec. 15 adjournment target.

There was not even perfunctory debate on the measure and only 40 minutes were used in explaining its terms and in putting through a minor amendment by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, that added $11 million to the measure as reported by the appropriations committee.

Dirksen and Ford Suggest Heel Dragging on Peace

(c) N.Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON — Republican leaders in Congress suggested Thursday that the Johnson administration had not done all it could to negotiate a settlement of the Vietnam war. They said a Republican President, who would be free to take new approaches, might bring peace.

Sen. Everett Dirksen, Dirksen of Illinois and Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, minority leaders in the Senate and House expressed their views at a news conference.

They seemed to be increasing their criticism of President Johnson's conduct of the war in preparation for next year's Presidential election.

"We again urge that this administration—to a degree and with a vigor not yet evident—look beyond Vietnam and consider where we shall stand and with whom we shall sit when this conflict ceases. The Congress and the people have seen all too little evidence of genuine effort to explore and exploit the diplomatic opportunities available to us in this regard. Channels of diplomacy, economic and otherwise, still remain open for our use."

In response to questions, Ford added that should the country choose a Republican President next year, peace could be pursued with "less hindrances of the past."

The inquiry came from an intermediary between the Secretariat and the Viet Cong whom Goldberg did not identify. Speculation here centers on the Soviet Union.

U.S. Air Cavalrymen Kill 159 North Viet Soldiers

SAIGON (AP) — American air cavalrymen, supported by artillery salvos, fighter-bomber attacks and helicopter gunship raids on heavily fortified enemy positions, killed 159 North Vietnamese soldiers in two days of fighting 300 miles northeast of Saigon, the U.S. Command reported Friday.

A spokesman said American casualties were light. But he said sporadic fighting still was underway Friday and gave no specific figures on U.S. casualties.

Many of the enemy dead, identified as elements of the 22nd Regiment of the 3rd North Vietnamese Division, apparently were slain by helicopters firing rockets and machine guns, and by Air Force bombers and the artillery.

The fighting developed Wednesday after U.S. reconnaissance helicopters spotted an enemy force and called for ground troops. Two companies of the 1st Air Cavalry Division were moved into the area by helicopter and armored personnel carriers. They made contact with an estimated North Vietnamese company—perhaps 200 men—entrenched in a heavily fortified position.

Headquarters said the U.S. forces contained the North Vietnamese troops Wednesday night with a wall of artillery and tactical air strikes around the enemy positions.

The air cavalrymen reestablished contact with the enemy forces Thursday and fighting continued throughout the day.

They were reinforced by another company of U.S. mechanized infantry and there was another bombardment by artillery, bombers and helicopter gunships.

To the south, heavy fighting broke out again early Friday near the Bu Dop Special Forces camp, three miles from the Cambodian border and 80 miles north of Saigon.

A battalion of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division came under heavy mortar and rocket fire followed by a ground attack by an estimated 400 Communist troops 1.5 miles southeast of the Bu Dop airstrip.

Many High Officials Attend Cardinal Spellman's Funeral

NEW YORK (AP) — With solemn splendor, Francis Cardinal Spellman was interred Thursday beneath the majestic cathedral where he reigned for 28 years with great power and sunny simplicity.

President Johnson, his lined face grave, was among the extraordinary congregation of notables—of state, church, industry and many faiths—assembled to do final honor to America's best-known prelate.

He was "a Christ-like Catholic churchman," said the Rev. Robert I. Gannon in a eulogy. Although the cardinal wielded enormous influence, Father Gannon said, "he never tried to impress anyone—even the most exalted."

But an illustrious company, including one of the most imposing array of eminent churchmen in the nation's history, was present in Manhattan's majestic St. Patrick's Cathedral to give their farewell homage.

President Johnson, dressed in black, sat on the aisle in a front pew, which he shared with other notables including Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and New York Sens. Robert F. Kennedy and Jacob K. Javits.

The cardinal died last Saturday of a cerebral stroke at the age of 78.

Eighteen churchmen, including six American cardinals and three cardinals from abroad, joined in consecrating the solemn requiem Mass for their colleague, archbishop of New York since 1939.

His burial chamber was a vault beneath the high altar, where six of his predecessors rest. And high above—from the vaulted ceiling—the red hat given him by Pope Pius XII was hung to mark his passing. About 3,300 persons packed the cathedral most of the pews filled by invited dignitaries. A few of the throng outside were allowed to enter, and fill side aisles.

President Johnson flew in from Washington and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey also was present, along with a vast turnout of other public officials.

Tight Security Surrounds LBJ

(c) N.Y. Times News Service NEW YORK — Under tight security, President Johnson came to New York Thursday to attend the funeral of Cardinal Spellman.

Tension over antidraft demonstrations obliged city police and the Secret Service to take unprecedented measures. The President arrived in secrecy at Floyd Bennett Naval Air Base Brooklyn and was shuttled by helicopter to the Sheep Meadow in Central Park.

This travel plan exposed the President to only a one-mile automobile ride through the city. When he departed, immediately after the 90-minute Pontifical Mass, he left by the cathedral's rear door, emerging on Madison Avenue through the archdiocese offices. This was a profound disappointment to the waiting crowds on Fifth avenue who had cheered his arrival at the main entrance.

Police had been quick to arrest 300 antidraft demonstrators who invaded the midtown area several hours before the President reached the cathedral at 12:57 p.m.

The helicopter shuttle plan, devised jointly by the police and the Secret Service, afforded not only maximum security but the least disruption of city traffic.

Previously, the Presidential motorcades caused massive traffic jams along the 12-mile route from John F. Kennedy International Airport to the midtown area of New York. And the police had to deploy an excessive number of men along that route, particularly at the overpasses.

Surgeons Ready to Perform Second Heart Transplant

NEW YORK (AP) — South African surgeons—with the world's first human heart transplant already to their credit—may perform a second similar operation within six weeks, they told The Associated Press in a telephone interview Thursday.

They have a patient—a middle-aged man who has been suffering from severe heart disease for the last six months—waiting for a new heart, said Dr. Christian Barnard, chief surgeon in Sunday's historic operation.

Two things stand in the way. First, the staff must be freed from its round-the-clock duties of watching Louis Washkansky, the 55-year-old grocer who received a new heart in Sunday's operation.

Second, the South African doctors must wait for an appropriate donor—someone dying of other causes whose heart is well, and perfectly young.

The Associated Press reached Dr. Barnard at the Groote

Schuur Hospital in Cape Town, where Washkansky is recuperating. Washkansky is doing so well he was allowed a visit Thursday from his wife, whom he had not seen since before the operation.

Dr. Barnard and his medical team replaced virtually all of Washkansky's ailing heart with the heart of 25-year-old Denise Ann Darvall. She was fatally injured in an automobile accident Saturday.

Mrs. Washkansky had been kept out of her husband's room because of the possibility she might pass on an infection to him while his resistance was being held down artificially by drugs and X-rays, and his body was recovering from the stresses of the operation.

When she saw him Thursday, Dr. Barnard said, "they just had a normal conversation."

Dr. Barnard calmly described the future course for his prized patient. Washkansky will have to be kept on the strict drug schedule "indefinitely," the doctor said.

He will receive his final radiation treatment this week. Both drugs and X-rays were used to stymie the natural immunity forces in the body which tend to throw off anything they recognize as foreign, such as infections or transplanted organs.

"We'll just have to feel our way" with Washkansky, Dr. Barnard said. "He has been watched around the clock by a trained doctor and nurse, but we hope by the end of the week we will not have to watch him so closely."

Current plans call for sending Washkansky home one month after last Sunday's operation—but even then "we will see him three times a week as an outpatient," Dr. Barnard said.

Blaze in Erie

ERIE—The fire that burns the city's garbage started prematurely yesterday and burned the city's garbage incinerator.

The blaze swept through the bottom floor of the incinerator at 13th and Greengarden sts., at 12:12 a.m., causing damage believed to be in excess of $10,000.

An official estimate of damage and an investigation into the cause are being made.

Fire Chief George Hamburger said that most of the damage was at the north end of the building, and indicated the blaze may have been caused by internal combustion in the trash pile.

Erie residents have been advised to take their rubbish to a privately-operated landfill at 15th and Pittsburgh ave.

It was the city's second major fire within 24 hours. Fire Wednesday caused $175,000 damage to Mace Electronics at 24th and French sts.

GOP Governors Foresee Scramble for Nomination

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Republican governors foresee a wide open scramble for the 1968 GOP presidential nomination at the party's national convention next August.

They doubt that any man will emerge from the presidential primaries with a grip on the nomination.

And only a scattered few are committing themselves now to any of the candidates for the White House.

That consensus emerged from an Associated Press survey as the GOP state executives gathered in this Florida resort city Thursday to discuss how they can influence next year's campaign—and the convention which will be held in Miami Beach during the week of Aug.

5. Now 26 strong, the GOP governors want a major role in shaping the party platform. But it is clear they are not likely to group themselves around any contender for the nomination itself.

"In my opinion," said Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer, "the convention will be wide open." Five of his colleagues chose virtually the same words to describe the outlook.

Gov. Daniel J. Evans of Washington expressed doubt that any candidate will build the kind of primary sweep which would propel him to a commanding position in the nomination race.

"If any candidate wins New Hampshire, Wisconsin and Oregon, I think he will be the nominee," Evans said. "I believe it's unlikely, however."

Michigan Gov. George Romney's announcement that he is a candidate for the nomination won him no new pledges of gubernatorial support.

His two announced state-house allies, John H. Chafee of Rhode Island and Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, once again declared their support.

But five of the 20 governors who participated in the survey said they believe Rockefeller himself would have the best chance of defeating President Johnson in the race for the White House next November.

Rockefeller has said repeatedly he is not seeking the nomination and will not become a candidate.

Three GOP governors openly endorsed Rockefeller but one of them, Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, acknowledged that former Vice President Richard M. Nixon on "will probably have a substantial lead" when the national convention opens.

Twelve of the governors said they have no current choice for the nomination, and virtually all of them said any of the current top contenders could defeat Johnson.

Delegates to State Convention Urged to Make Own Decisions

HARRISBURG (AP) — Delegates to the Pennsylvania Constitutional Convention were urged Thursday to make their own decisions rather than blindly follow the recommendations of constitutional reform groups.

Atty. Gen. William C. Sennett, while praising the various organizations that fought for the convention call, told the assembled delegates the ultimate responsibility now lay in their hands.

"Each person or group that joined the battle for constitutional reform must now recognize that their responsibilities have irrevocably passed — like the baton in a race — to the delegates of this convention," Smith said.

"No man or group must inflexibly and unyieldingly attempt to force 'fixed positions' upon this convention. The delegates alone are the masters of their fate and the fate of the constitution."

Sennett was one of the principal speakers as the convention completed the first full week of a scheduled three-month session.

The task of the 163 delegates is to propose revisions to four sections of the state's 94-year-old basic law. The proposals go before the voters next April 23.

Before adjourning to Monday, the delegates heard the last of four lectures on the sections of the constitution to be considered for change.

Dr. David H. Kurtzman, research director on taxation and finance for the convention's Preparatory Committee, called the constitutional prohibition against a state debt in excess of $1 million "most restrictive."

"While a 'pay-as-you-go' philosophy may be sensible in handling current expenditures, long-term borrowing to finance the state's urgent needs for capital improvements, such as highways, schools and parks, has come to be accepted by most as a practical necessity," Kurtzman said.

As a practical matter, Kurtzman noted, the state has circumvented the constitutional borrowing ban through high-cost authority financing. As of June 30, state authority bonds outstanding were in excess of $1 billion, he said.

Kurtzman, in addition to his duties with the convention's Preparatory Committee, heads Gov. Shafer's special Tax Advisory Study Committee and more recently was appointed superintendent of public instruction.

William G. Willis, vice president and secretary of Temple University, briefed the delegates on the local government section of the constitution and some of the issues involved in revising that section.

Willis, another research director for the Preparatory Committee, listed home rule, annexation, area government and county structure as among the issues to be considered.

Willis said the delegates must ask themselves two important philosophical questions before launching into their discussion on ways of improving the local government section.

The questions: "Is local government only a purveyor of public safety, street, water, and sewer services? Or is it indeed a full-fledged partner (with state and federal government) in the shaping of a brighter, fuller, more humane society for all of us?"

Earlier in the week, the delegates had been briefed on legislative apportionment by former attorney general David H. Stahl, now Pittsburgh city solicitor, and on the judiciary by Burton R. Laub, dean of the Dickinson Law School.

As the delegates took leave for the weekend, Lt. Gov. Raymond J. Broderick, convention president, and the three other top officers met to consider committee appointments.

The rules, adopted Wednesday, call for the creation of eight committees and 16 subcommittees involving a total membership of 232. The committee assignments will be announced Monday.

Meanwhile, the convention announced that 103 persons had applied for registration as lobbyists. Their applications were being processed.

Hussein Gives Government Forty Hours to Surrender

(c) N. Y. Times News Service BEIRUT—Prince Mohammed Ben Hussein, chief military commander of the Yemeni Royalist Guerrilla forces, has given the republican government in Sana, the capital, 40 hours to "surrender the city or be annihilated," Hashem Hashem, a Yemeni Royalist spokesman, announced here Thursday night.

Ben Hashem, who is minister of social affairs in the exiled government of Imam (King) Mohammed El Badr, said he had received a cable from ex-prince Mohammed saying that the 40-hour period began at 5 p.m. Thursday.

The Royalist spokesman said Cadi Abdul Rahman Iryani, chief of state of the republican regime who arrived in Cairo Thursday, had "fled" from Yemen. Reports from Cairo said Iryani had arrived there for "consultations with President Nasser."

According to Ben Hashem, Iryani had spent the last five days in the Yemeni Red Sea port of Hodeida awaiting results of military moves before he decided to "escape" to Egypt.

Dispatches from Cairo said the Soviet Union was evacuating Soviet women and children from Hodeida and that diplomats were quitting Sana. The only western embassy there is that of Belgium, which represents the United States and sev-

Deny Reports Of Bombing In Thailand

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon and the U.S. embassy in Bangkok denied reports from an Air Force training center Thursday that American planes are now bombing Communist infiltration routes in northeast Thailand.

Despite almost identical statements of denial from Bangkok and Washington, officers at Eglin Air Force Base in Florida antiaircraft weapons have been moved from Laos into a small part of Thailand and that U.S. pilots are bombing those emplacements.

The Eglin officers said some American planes have been shot down over Thailand although there has been no official confirmation of this.

They described the antiaircraft batteries as part of a Communist effort to establish a firm foothold in Thailand.

The Pentagon statement said: "Aircraft of the United States armed forces are not bombing targets in Thailand. No U.S. military aircraft have been lost to Communist antiaircraft fire or surface-to-air missiles in Thailand. We have no knowledge of any Communist antiaircraft guns or surface-to-air missiles in Thailand."

Eglin AFB is a major Air Force Tactical Command facility where air commandoes are trained.

Some 1,000 air commandoes are among the 35,000 or more U.S. military men now in Thailand. They help train Thais in counterinsurgency operations.

Both the U.S. and the Thai governments acknowledged earlier this year that many American air attacks on enemy supply lines and positions in South Vietnam were originating from Thailand bases.

U.S. B-52 bombers formerly based on Guam have been moved to Thailand to carry out these operations.

There are also several hundred Communist technicians in Yemen, including 40 recently arrived Soviet aviation technicians, and Communist Chinese experts who are directing a Chinese-built textile factory.

One Way To Keep Employes Happy

MUIR, Pa. (AP) — One way to keep employes happy is to take them on a Caribbean cruise, away from the snow, slush and sleet of Central Pennsylvania.

So philosophizes William T. Harrison, owner of Manson Wear, Inc., a sportswear manufacturer and one of the principal industries in this tiny (pop. 600) Schuylkill County community.

Harrison is doing just that. He's closing shop tomorrow and the Harrison and 42 of their 47 employes are heading for New York and a weekend flight to the small Dutch Island of Curaçao. There they will transfer to a cruise ship for a leisurely 10 days in the Caribbean. The company is footing all bills.

Five employes won't make the trip, for reasons ranging from pregnancy of two married women employes, to distaste for flying.

"There's a tremendous relationship between us," Harrison said of his employes. He explained that most of the workers had been with him since the plant was established 15 years ago.

The group is due back in Muir Dec. 17. The sewing machines start whirring again next morning, Dec. 18.

Mother of Two Is Killed In Duplex Home Kitchen

BROWNSVILLE, Pa. (AP) — The mother of two teen-age girls was shot and killed in the kitchen of her duplex home Thursday. A neighbor who lived in the other half of the duplex was charged with murder.

Police said Loretta Helmick, 36, of Rt. 1 Grindstone, about one mile east of this Fayette County town, was shot once behind the ear with a .32 caliber pistol.

Steve Mikita, 31, surrendered to police and state troopers at day on the outskirts of the capital.

In addition, he reported, Royalists "have destroyed" a Republican columned by Sheikh Al-Awadi from Hodeida to open the road to Sana that has been blocked by tribal action. He said the "whole force was wiped out including tanks and armored cars."

The Middle East news agency, the official Egyptian service, reported that Sana radio had announced the imposition of a curfew Thursday night.

These reports, despite previous false alarms, appear to mean that the long expected royalist offensive against the Republic is in full swing. The Royalists and their major supporter, the Saudi Arabian government, had been holding off until all Egyptian soldiers had left the country under an agreement signed at the end of August in Khartoum by King Faisal and Nasser.

The last Egyptian soldiers were scheduled to embark for home from Hodeida Thursday, according to Royalist reports. An Egyptian expeditionary force had been in Yemen to support the Republic since the revolution of 1962.

The newest Republican regime, set up by a military coup Nov. 5 with Iryani as chief of state, had refused to negotiate with the royal Hamiduddin family or to consider a referendum on the country's form of government. Ahmed Mohammed Noman, a Republican leader named Nov. 5 as a member of the three-man ruling Republican council, has remained in Beirut and refused to join his colleagues because he disagreed with their intransigent position.

He predicted last Saturday that Sana would be pillaged and sacked by guerrilla tribesmen.

Brownsville Hospital two hours after the shooting, police said. Brownsville patrolman Sam Nicola said Mikita called him from the hospital and told him to send an ambulance for Mrs. Helmick.

Nicola said Mikita had gone to the hospital to visit a patient. Mrs. Helmick's body was still at her home.

Mikita told the patrolman the shooting was an accident. He said he had been visiting his neighbor, police said.

Take Truth to the User

Congressman Jamie L. Whitten recently addressed the National Agricultural Chemicals Association and drew attention to what he said was a need for the public to better understand the use of chemicals in growing foodstuffs to meet the world's needs. To quote Congressman Whitten: "The truth must be brought home to the peoples of all nations if mass starvation is to be avoided."

There is ample reason to agree with this champion of the chemical interests that "the truth must be brought home to the people of all nations," but that truth may lead to different conclusions than his statement intended.

This will be especially true if the search for truth is directed to considering the historical past of pesticides and insecticides since the first potato plant was sprayed with paris green or other arsenic compounds back around 1860.

The potato experiment was so successful that it wasn't long before lead arsenate was being used to combat the codling moth in orchards, calcium arsenate was being used to fight the boll weevil on cotton, and lime sulphur, naphthalene, and hydrocyanic acid gases were being used for other purposes.

Were these compounds dangerous to the health of those who used the end products? Health officials seemed to think so. In 1919 western pears were banned in Boston, and a few years later British authorities rejected shipments of American apples because of excessive residue.

It was a desire to eliminate the faults of the early pesticides and insecticides that started the search for safe compounds that is continuing today. The great breakthrough, DDT, initially hailed as the answer to all insect problems, hasn't lived up to the expectations of the chemists and is quite generally accepted as a health menace.

The organic phosphorous compounds that have come into use since are showing promise either in actual use or in experimental applications, but these are still toxic to warm-blooded animals because of their cholinesterase-inhibiting properties.

But both the organic phosphorous compounds and several synthetic organic products of the carbamate class are presently considered safe by the Department of Agriculture if used at accepted levels.

But it has been the "used at accepted levels" bug that has been the main fault of pesticides and insecticides ever since the first paris green was sprayed on the first potato plant. The food producer is and has been far more interested in lessening the insect damage in his fields and orchards than in the health hazard his product may present to a consumer thousands of miles away.

It seems far more reasonable that Congressman Whitten and his chemical-producing allies should take the pesticide-insecticide truth to the users of the various toxic materials in an effort to preserve the health of the nation and prevent the annihilation of our wildlife rather than expect the public to understand the misuse of poisonous compounds.

The Dollar Slash—V

A key part of French President de Gaulle's viciously anti-U.S. policy statement at his semi-annual press conference last week was his call for "re-establishment of the international monetary system founded on the immutability, impartiality and universality which are the privileges of gold."

Porter

For this would mean the abandonment of the modern monetary system which has fueled the magnificent post-World War II trade boom. It would involve repudiation of the U.S. dollar as a medium for financing international trade and a return to gold alone for settlement of national debts. It would reward those who have hoarded gold, punish those who have trusted the U.S. dollar.

The outcome would be a chaotic contraction of trade, massive bankruptcies and joblessness, a world depression. As I hope this series has explained, I do not exaggerate. France played a despicable role in toppling the British pound by deliberately dramatizing all the pounds' weaknesses and inspiring rumors which spurred dumping of the currency. She hopes to play a similar role in toppling the U.S. dollar.

Q. WHY IS FRANCE DOING THIS?

A. At the heart of de Gaulle's attack is his almost insane hatred for what he calls the "American hegemony" (American predominance). His objective is the downfall of the U.S. and while he must be aware that in a worldwide depression, France would sink with the rest of us, he apparently is willing to see the French people pay any price for a destruction of U.S. power.

De Gaulle has turned in nearly $3 billion of dollars for U.S. gold in the past few years and has built France's gold reserves from a puny $750 million in 1958 to more than $5.2 billion now. France would profit mightily if the U.S. doubled the price at which we stand ready to buy and sell gold from $35 to $70 an ounce and thus devalued the dollar in terms of gold in half.

But the profit France would make on a boost in the price of gold is only a minor part of the story.

Q. CAN THE DOLLAR BE TOPPLED?

A. It can be if by our irresponsible actions, we encourage wholesale exchanges of the dollars owned by our qualified foreign creditors into gold. (Their potential dollar claims total $28 billion; our entire gold reserve is $12 billion-plus.) This is why it is now imperative for us to demonstrate our determination to bring a semblance of equilibrium into our balance of payments and to stop flooding Europe with dollars. Our creditors must not lose confidence in holding dollars.

Q. IS GOLD A GOOD INVESTMENT?

A. If there is a near-term boost in the gold price, meaning devaluation of the dollar, it is. But as a long-term deal, it's inferior. A buyer of gold freezes his funds in a sterile asset; it earns nothing. He also must pay expensive storage fees. Moreover, it is illegal for U.S. citizens to hold gold here or abroad (except as jewelry or under special license.)

Q. WHEN WILL PRESSURE GO OFF THE DOLLAR?

A. Relief is on the way—if we get our affairs in order. At Rio de Janeiro in September, the delegates of 106 nations belonging to the International Monetary Fund approved a plan to create a new type of world money which governments will be able to use in addition to gold and U.S. dollars to settle their debts with each other. The aim is precisely the opposite of de Gaulle's: to lessen reliance on gold and the dollar, to erase the danger of a trade depression. The plan is scheduled for ratification by the nations in 1968-69, but the whole reform could be shelved if the world concludes it's just a ball-out for the dollar.

Q. HOW SERIOUS IS THE GOLD RUSH NOW?

A. The post-British devaluation rush to turn in dollars for gold has subsided and a new network for protection of currencies has just been created. But this will be only a lull, and an uneasy one at that, unless we establish priorities.

The challenge was best summarized by the chairman of our own central bank, William McCleskey Martin of the Federal Reserve Board: "The entire world is looking to the U.S. to see if it has the capability, the will, and the determination to preserve and maintain this period of prosperity."

The Wife of a President

WASHINGTON—Thousands of words are being published this week about the first young lady in a half a century to become a White House bride. But what about the lady who guided her daughter toward maturity and matrimony? What were the problems of raising two daughters in the goldfish bowl of the Senate and the White House? And what are the problems of being the wife of a President?

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson was asked about these problems during an interview with Mrs. Anneleese Friedman of the German magazine Der Stern—an interview in which I participated.

"The girls were not just plummed into public life," Mrs. Johnson explained. "It was a sort of gradual wading in. When Lynda was born my husband was in the House of Representatives, and when she was a very little girl he went to the Senate. He was in the Senate by the time Luci was one year old. So they have grown up in public life—in an increasing intensity. There is no doubt about it, it's been annoying sometimes."

"Lynda Bird has felt that boys might be hesitant to ask her for a date because she was the daughter of the President. And perhaps also there's something of the feeling that people might seem as though they like you more than they really do because of your place, I think, however, they're both natural, level-headed youngsters, although very, very different."

"The girls' education was divided between Texas and up here," Mrs. Johnson went on. "The last school years were at National Cathedral, which is quite demanding academically."

"When you consider my children's total environment, they have been subject to change. First we were in the Senate, then in the Vice Presidency, and they lived part of the year in Texas and part up here; so they had to get used to change and expect it."

"They were also exposed to a big family. The people who work with us have become very close to them. I can think of half a dozen people whom the children look upon as close and dear, almost as family. And they were also exposed to a lot of good conversation with real smart people. It gave the children an opportunity to listen to a lot of earnest, exploring, knowledgeable talk about the world."

"And that became a big factor in their lives. I think it has been a great opportunity. If you feel they have conducted themselves well and shown good judgment, then I am very happy that you think so."

At times, Mrs. Johnson said, she had to be firm with her children. "You have to tell them just very plain and strong and simple what you think is right and wrong."

"I remember when Luci was at a pretty tender age of about 14 she was out on a date and she wasn't in at what I thought was a proper hour. And I waited and waited. Finally the door opened and a rather frightened looking little Luci came in with her beau.

"And there I was standing in my bathrobe with a pretty stern expression on my face."

"Well, the explanation was quite reasonable. There had been a snow storm. They just had to creep along in traffic and take another couple home. It had taken them about an hour and a half longer than they had expected."

"But I was glad I was there, because I think both Luci and the little boy were glad that somebody was taking note and caring about them and was going to tell them right sternly that they ought not to have been out that late."

"How does the President take to criticism?" Mrs. Johnson was asked.

"I don't suppose anybody enjoys it. I do think he's more philosophic, has his passions more bridled than in his 30s and 40s. The fact that he's been around here a long time has made him clearly understand that the first few years you're in the presidency is the time when you can actively push and hopefully achieve what you're trying for, what you believe in."

"From then on, the criticism and the barbs are likely to rise to a crescendo. It happens with everyone."

"I think my husband is also questioning enough to wonder—to examine—to consider—how much there might be to this criticism. Is there another path? Is there something else that makes sense?"

"I know he often gets somebody who's well equipped to come in and take the other side of the question—play the Devil's advocate. 'I am thinking about following such and such a policy,' he will say, and then he asks the man who knows the other side to give his side—somebody who's very experienced."

"How do you yourself take criticism of your husband?"

"It only cuts in proportion to how much you have liked the person who has made the criticism," Mrs. Johnson replied. "If it comes from someone you're devoted to, it has an edge to it. But, you see, I've been in this most of our married life—in the House of Representatives and the Senate and the Vice Presidency; so I hope I've acquired a philosophical attitude. I think I have."

"Do you pass criticism on to your husband when it's important?"

"Yes, I do. But more often he's so besieged, he's under such a waterfall of criticism that I try to pass on to him some of the good, sweet things that I hear when I stand shaking hands with 300 educators or 4H young folks or members of veterans' groups or women's art organizations. Also I pass on a filtering of the mail that comes in and which gives a wonderful line as to what's going on in the hearts and minds of the folks. Reading this mail is one of the mighty interesting parts of this job."

(Editor's Note—The interview with Mrs. Johnson will be continued tomorrow.)

Partisan Con Con Yippers

HARRISBURG -- Columnist's Notebook: PARTISAN CONVENTION YIPPER—Few will dispute that the 13-member preparatory committee for Pennsylvania's constitutional convention now under way struggled valiantly to keep partisan political overtones from rupturing the rewrite session before it got under way.

Made up of Democrats and Republicans, the preparatory committee trod the middle of the road in about as middle-of-the-road fashion as possible. The opening session of the convention last Friday generally has been regarded as about as bipartisan as could be found anywhere.

When organizational sessions got underway this week however, the tenor and air density changed slightly—to the utter irritation of a number of convention delegates. It developed during a rules committee hearing when one Republican delegate felt called upon to vent some partisan feelings.

Former Attorney General and former State Superior Court Judge Robert E. Woodside allowed as how he was "not happy" with the proposal of the preparatory committee to have co-chairmen for each convention committee, one Democrat and one Republican, the obvious purpose being to keep any show of partisanship out of the committee structure. Mr. Woodside felt instead there should be one chairman. (With Republicans holding an 88-75 edge in convention delegates it is obvious who would rule convention committees under the single chairmanship routine.)

Mr. Woodside also objected to the preparatory committee's proposal to require 109 votes (two-thirds) to suspend convention rules, as opposed to the conventional majority of 82 votes, noting judiciously: "I think that any court will rule that a majority of 82 votes is all that is needed on any date at any time to do anything."

The former jurist's point was not at dispute insofar as what constitutes a majority is concerned. Again, what the preparatory committee was trying to do was eliminate as far as possible the partisan factor in stipulating the 109 vote proviso inasmuch as the 88 GOP delegates automatically provide six votes over and above the 82 majority nominally required, thus giving the convention an out-and-out partisan tilt.

YOWLING POOCHES, ET AL.—Careless and thoughtless pooch fanciers who delight in hearing their pet beagle bay and yowl into the far reaches of night to the ear-plugging agony of ear-plugging neighbors, might do well to find ways and means of throttling their mutts, if a piece of legislation now in the House of Representatives ever comes out of its legislative doghouse.

That bill, an amendment to the Penal Laws, states flatly: "Whoever keeps or maintains any dog or dogs whose barking and howling causes discomfort and annoyance to residents of the neighborhood in which the dog or dogs are kept and maintained, is guilty of a nuisance."

Now, any public or common nuisance is considered guilty of a misdemeanor and under such circumstances, if found guilty, may be sentenced to pay a fine of $500 or suffer one year imprisonment—or both.

WEASEL OUT OF THIS ONE!—FROM the files of the State Game Commission: Luzerne District Land Manager J. A. Booth, of White Haven, reported this fall that while driving along a highway he spotted a rabbit on the roadway that appeared to be still alive but wasn't. He stopped beside the dead rabbit and noticed a weasel trying to pull the rabbit away. He reported though that while watching the weasel, a second weasel ran out of the brush, and in his own words "attacked the left front tire of my car!" One might say that's one for the road or, weasel out of that one!

Opossums and Porcupines

You might have wondered how such dim-witted and slow-moving creatures as opossums and porcupines have managed to survive in Pennsylvania. Perhaps they have taken to heart the Biblical saying, "the meek shall inherit the earth."

Both animals are so peculiar in appearance and habits that were they not so abundant they could occupy niches in Ripley's "Believe It or Not" collection of oddities.

The familiar opossum of our local woodlands is the Virginia opossum. For the name "opossum," we can thank Captain John Smith who was spared from being clubbed to death when Pocahontas intervened on his behalf. Captain Smith had probably learned the name from an Algonquin-speaking Indian.

If you had spent your entire life in Warren County in the late 19th century you would have encountered opossums. They didn't drift this far north until well into the twentieth century. Now they have extended their range into southern Canada.

If the opossum, with its long, slender, pointed muzzle, thin, naked ears and naked, scaly tail reminds you of a giant rat you have been thinking along the same lines as the Sautee Sioux Indians. Their name for opossum means "big rat."

The opossum is a living fossil that has changed little since it was contemporary with the dinosaurs and flying reptiles 90 million years ago. It is a marsupial—that is, it is an animal with a pouch for carrying its young.

The young are born alive but are still in embryonic form. It would take twenty of them to fill a teaspoon, but an average litter contains only eight or nine babies. There are usually two litters a year.

A grown opossum will weigh 28,000 times as much as it did at birth. An average human adult by comparison only weighs twenty times as much as he did when he was born.

If you have 32 teeth in your jaws, you still have a full complement of teeth. But if you were an opossum, 32 teeth would leave you short-changed. You should have 50. An opossum has more teeth than any other land mammal in America. Yet with all these teeth, it is not aggressive as a predator. It may raid a farmer's chicken yard occasionally, but most of its diet is made up of grasshoppers, crickets, squash bugs, stink bugs, ground beetles, May beetles, ants, and carrion—including dead chickens or their remains. It also relishes berries, snails, millipedes, spiders, wood mice, meadow mice, shrews, and an occasional squirrel.

Opossums are commonly afflicted with mites, fleas, roundworms, flukes and tapeworms. If after reading this, you still think that you would savor roast 'possum there are many fine recipes for the "big rat." In the South it is often served with baked yams, grits, watercress salad, wild plum jelly and spoon bread. The flesh of opossum is said to be extremely fat, and to the uninitiated it has a very peculiar flavor.

If roast 'possum doesn't suit your fancy, how about roast porcupine? One of these prickly rodents could save your life if you were lost in the woods and facing starvation. Porcupines are easily killed by a sharp blow to the end of the snout with a stick. Even if you are in a weakened state you shouldn't have too much trouble overtaking one on foot if you can stumble upon it in the open. A porcupine's diet is not revolting like that of the opossum. It subsists principally upon the inner bark of trees during winter, and in the summer it lives on a wide variety of plants.

The survival of opossums is due mainly to their high birth rate, and their ability to adapt to a hostile environment. The survival of porcupines as a species is not due to their fecundity. The female usually gives birth to only one baby a year. They owe their survival largely to their built-in armor—the needle-sharp quills. Few animals care to tackle a walking pin-cushion. Both opossums and porcupines are excellent climbers and in such a heavily forested county as Warren, trees offer convenient escape routes when danger threatens.

People still believe a lot of nonsense about both opossums and porcupines. A widespread belief about opossums is that they customarily hang by their tails. A young opossum can wrap its tail around a limb and hang for a long time, but it doesn't do this of its own choosing. It must be made to do it.

Another popular belief about this fascinating animal is that the young, after they have emerged from the pouch, hang head down by their tails from the mother's tail which has been arched over her back. The truth is that the mother can't carry her tail arched over her back. The young do, however, ride on their mother's back by clinging to her coarse fur.

Buck Season Gives Way to Antlerless

Pennsylvania's buck season will end at sunset this Saturday, December 9, and the regular statewide antlerless deer season will be held next Monday, Tuesday and Saturday, December 11, 12 and 16.

Early indications are that hunters so far this season have been taking deer at a record rate. The all-time record for bucks harvested in a year was 1965, when hunters reported tagging 65,150 antlered deer. Last year hunters reported bagging 58,722 bucks.

Field reports show that hunters are seeing plenty of white-tails, and indications are that there could also be a large antlerless deer harvest next week. Antlerless deer hunters

Bob Toledo Top Small College Ace

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Toledo, San Francisco State's record-wrecker, captured the total offense title for small-college football players by the largest margin ever, the final statistics disclosed Thursday.

With a record accumulation of 3,407 rushing-passing yards, Toledo finished 908 yards ahead of runner-up Joe Stetser of Chico State, Calif.

Stetser gained 2,499 and was followed by Rich Lichtel of Bloomsburg with 2,464 and Larry Tillman, Murray State, 2,326.

Toledo also set marks for passing yardage, 3,513, and touchdown passes, 45. Stetser took the pass completion crown with 220 while Dickie Moore of Western Kentucky won the rushing championship with 1,444 yards and Bert Nye of West Chester was the leading scorer with 127 points on 19 touchdowns and 13 extra points.

Bruce Swanson of North Park was the No. 1 punter with a 46.3 yard average for 53 efforts. Harvey Tanner of Murray State was the top pass receiver with 88.

San Francisco State and Tennessee State each took two team titles. SF State was first in total offense with a 490-yard average and passing offense with a 387-yard mark.

Tennessee State was No. 1 in total defense with an average yield of only 61.6 yards a game and rushing defense, 16.7-yard average.

North Dakota State led in rushing offense with 299.6 yards a game and Mt. Union, Ohio, in forward pass defense with a 61.4-yard average.

Waynesburg was the highest scoring team with 483 points in nine games for a 53.7 point average.

NEW YORK (AP) — Greg Schumacher, a reserve defensive tackle, is the only member of the Los Angeles Rams who will not be ready for Saturday's important battle with the Green Bay Packers according to the weekly injury report issued Thursday by the National Football League.

Schumacher is out with a knee injury. The Packers expect Lee Roy Caffey, who has been troubled by an ankle injury, to be ready to start but list full-back Jim Grabowski, injured knee, as questionable for second straight week.

Baltimore, which will be watching with interest the telecast of the Rams' Saturday game, will be without defensive back Lenny Lyles for Sunday's game with New Orleans.

Lyles, who suffered an ankle injury last week, will be replaced by Al Haymond or Preston Pearson. The Saints will welcome the return of linebacker Steve Stonebreaker, who has missed three games due to a foot injury, but Jerry Sturum will start at tackle for Ray Rissmiller, who has an ankle injury.

In the other meeting of divisional contenders, Cleveland will be at full strength but St. Louis lists center Bob DeMarco, pulled hamstring, and tackle Bob Reynolds, ankle injury, as doubtful with Irv Goode and Clyde Williams as replacements. If Goode plays center, Rick Sortun will replace him at guard.

Other injury reports include: Philadelphia at Dallas—Eagles list guard Jim Skaggs (knee) as very doubtful, flanker Gary Ballman (hamstring) as doubtful but expect to reactivate tight end Mike Ditka (knee). Dallas's fleet split end, Bob Hayes, is doubtful (hamstring) and Pete Genta takes over.

Detroit at New York—Flanker-punter Pat Studstill (ankle, hamstring) is out for the season with tight end Ron Kramer (back). Giants expect Spider Lockhart (knee) to start at free safety after missing two games. San Francisco at Atlanta—Receiver Dave Parks (hamstring) is out for season, line-are encouraged to take white-tails from farm areas where deer damage to crops has been occurring. This type of hunting is often mutually beneficial: reduction of the herd lowers crop damage, and hunters are often rewarded with heavier whitetails.

Only hunters who possess antlerless deer licenses and who have not taken a whitetail in the state during the current license year will be permitted to hunt during the three-day antlerless season. Antlerless licenses are valid only in the county in which they were issued, and are not transferable.

In the event that bad weather during the antlerless season prevents a desired and adequate harvest of deer in any area of the state, the Game Commission will announce, through all news media, those counties and dates in which antlerless whitetails may be lawfully taken with the required antlerless license.

LONG ARM OF LAW

Faculty vs. Lawmen For Benefit Monday

It's the "Flatfoots" against the "Faculty" Monday night when a group of local law enforcement officers, supplemented with a few "ringers," meet a team of Warren teachers in a benefit basketball game.

Coached by Jack "The Brain" Krupiec, the lawmen will give chase to a squad of light-fingered and heavy-footed educators, some of whom have a score to settle with the long-armed, straight-shooting badge polishers.

Cocaptains for the Flatfoot Five will be Troopers Jack "The Ripper" Barnes and Billy "The Kid" Dudnick. The squad will also include a few more members of the "most wanted" list like Trooper Gary "Intermittent" Rain, Mark "Crash" Golumb, Officer Jim "No Backs" Tridico and Sheriff Dick "No Bargain" Hagerty. Bench strength will be in the form of Mickey "Deadeye" Dixon, Joey "The Fox" Font, and Booney "Meadowlark" Sturdevant, all recent selections to the 1967 All-Funk team.

Bill "Over the Hill" Miller will pilot the Classroom Clowns, who will reportedly use a get-away offense and a not-quite defense. If all else fails, the teachers can make a stand on the fifth amendment.

The educators have had a few injuries crop up just thinking about the game, including one to Joel "The Beast" Beason that has been diagnosed as "ballet ankle." Even if Beason isn't up to playing, Coach Miller can count on Ron "Dead Fly" Isackson, Bob "Holy" Hovan, Jack "Running" Creek and Toby "Cake" Shea. Also suiting up will be Dave "Sneakers" Clifton, Jack "Wall to Wall" Howard, "Fuzzy" Ferguson, Dave "Hairy" Dore, John "Coolie" Eggleston, Bill "Man Mountain" Hill, Lee "Shoot for Two" Chew and Grift "Gold" Smith.

Officials for the game will be two Dragon cagers, Jim "Pineapple" Cruickshank and "Dapper Dan" O'Neil. Rick "The Fix Is In" Brewster will be the official scorer, Rick "Rocky" Nasman will be the announcer and "Doubtful Dave" Cobb will be the clock operator.

Tickets are 50 cents for high school students and adults and 25 cents for grade school students. They are available through Varsity Club members and will be sold at the door prior to the game.

Philadelphia—Guard Bill Stetz, tight end Ditka; Pittsburgh, defensive back John Foruria; St. Louis, defensive back Mike Barnes; San Francisco, running back Charlie Brown; tackle Dick Anderson, linebacker Fred Whittingham.

Three Trojans on AP's All-America Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Three stars from the nation's No. 1 college football team, the University of Southern California, including the peerless O. J. Simpson, head the 1967 All-America announced Thursday by The Associated Press.

Ron Yary, offensive tackle, and Adrian Young, a linebacker, and fellow Trojans from the national championship eleven, joined Simpson, one of the greatest of modern running backs, on the first team.

The only other school to place more than one man on the first team was Notre Dame, represented by Kevin Hardy, 270-pound defensive end, and Tom Schoen, a defensive back.

Two players are repeaters from the 1966 all-America: Wayne Meylan, Nebraska, middle guard, and Frank Loria, Virginia Tech, defensive back.

The team was selected on the basis of recommendations from the Top Ten AP football boards in each of the eight National Collegiate Athletic Association districts.

Not since 1946 has there been such unanimity on the All-America backfield. That was the year of Army's Felix "Doc" Blanchard and Glenn Davis, Georgia's Charley Trippi, and Notre Dame's Johnny Lujack.

In 1967 it is Gary Beban of UCLA, the Heisman Trophy winner, as quarterback; Leroy Keyes, Purdue's versatile halfback; Larry Csonka, Syracuse's great, 230-pound fullback; and Simpson, sometimes known as "Orange Juice," whose real name is Orendahl James, and who scored 11 touchdowns and threw three scoring passes.

Simpson and Keyes are juniors, the other two seniors. Beban, a 6-foot, 191-pound clutch performer, led UCLA to a 23-5 record over three seasons and in 1967 scored 11 touchdowns, passed for eight, and ran up 1,586 yards total offense. His efforts put him in fifth place on the all-time collegiate total offense list with 5,197 yards, back of Virgil Carter, Brigham Young; Johnny Bright, Drake; Jerry Rhome, Tulsa; and Steve Spurrier, Florida.

Keyes, 6-foot-3 and 199 pounds, who still has a year to play at Purdue, led all college scorers with 19 touchdowns and 114 points. He set the Purdue single-game rushing mark with 225 yards against Illinois, and against Minnesota he scored three touchdowns through a defense that had allowed only six in seven previous games.

Csonka broke almost every Syracuse offensive record set by such greats as Jim Brown, Ernie Davis, Jim Nance and Floyd Little, and wound up his career only 56 yards short of 3,000 despite a hand injury that handicapped him in the final three games.

Among his Syracuse records are: most rushing yards for one game, 216; most rushing yards for one season, 1,127; and most rushing yards for career, 2,934.

As for Simpson, Al Davis, general manager of the Oakland Raiders of the American Football League, succinctly describes him: "He's so explosive nothing can stop him from greatness. He has everything a great back needs."

Simpson was the nation's rushing leader with 1,415 yards despite missing one full game and part of another with injuries, and almost single-handedly beat both Notre Dame and UCLA with second-half explosions.

Once the test of a fleet half-back was that he could do 100 yards in 10 seconds even. But not Simpson. He does 9.4, and is a member of Southern California's world-record 440-yard relay team.

The South contributes both the first team offensive ends, Dennis Homan of Alabama and Ron Sellers of Florida State. Another southerner, Edgar Chandler of Georgia, is at offensive tackle along with Yary of USC, and at offensive guard are Garry Cassels, Indiana, and Rich Sotter, Houston.

Beban Waiting for Draft, But By Pros or Military?

NEW YORK (AP) — Gary Beban came to town Thursday to pick up the 1967 Heisman Trophy and talked about two drafts.

As a senior at UCLA, the nation's most outstanding college football player can be sure he'll be snapped up quickly in one draft — the pro football kind. He can only hope, however, that he won't be grabbed right away in the other draft — the military variety.

"Right now, I have a student deferment and I'm on a waiting list to get into a reserve unit, but my status is the same as any young man in the country," said the brilliant quarterback, who was honored at the Heisman dinner later in the day.

"I don't know whether I'll be drafted as soon as I graduate or not. I don't speak to my draft board, and they don't speak to me. The only unfortunate thing about the draft is it leaves you so uncertain."

"If I'm drafted, though, I won't complain. You can't take from this country without giving back. It's too tremendous a country not to give back something."

As for the football draft, the 21-year-old Californian is looking forward to it because he wants to take a crack at pro ball.

"I've been in athletics all my life," he said, "and I feel I have to try it. You try it and you're not good enough, that's it. But if you never try it, you'll never know."

Beban is well aware that the Minnesota Vikings have a bonus pick this year as part of the deal which sent Frank Tankerton to the New York Giants.

The youngster also knows the Vikings don't have an established quarterback. Neither Joe Kapp nor Ron VanderKelen or Bob Berry has stood out for Minnesota.

"Right now, it's a period of speculation," he said. "I don't know who Minnesota will want. Maybe they'll take a lineman. They have three young quarterbacks."

"There are two possibilities for a quarterback, and I don't know which I'd prefer. You can go to a team where there is a good quarterback and you can learn from him. Or you can go to a team where you can take over right away and learn through experience. If you do that and win, you're known as a great quarterback."

A more immediate problem, however, is his school work. A history major, he has final exams next week in his three courses — constitutional history, colonial history and the history of physical education in the United States.

"I have three days to refresh my memory on the material," said Beban, a B student. "I also have a paper to do for the physics course, but they're giving me until January to do that."

"Most people would smile and say, 'There's a dumb football player taking an easy course,' but it's really difficult."

Baltimore (AP) — Jim Parker, an outstanding National Football League offensive lineman for a decade, retired Thursday so the Baltimore Colts could activate a healthy replacement in their championship stretch drive. The retirement is effective immediately.

"It probably is one of the most unselfish moves ever done in sports," Coach Don Shula said of Parker's voluntary action taken because of an aching right knee.

Shula explained that only the 40 players on the roster in Sunday's game will be eligible for any playoffs for the championship. The Colts are leading in their Coastal Division with two scheduled games remaining.

Parker's knee has been bothering him since the second game of the season and his place at right tackle has been taken by Sam Ball, a second-year man from Kentucky.

Shula said Parker came to him two weeks ago and said "if

DREAM BACKFIELD

There was no doubt about the college All-America backfield, as announced yesterday by The Associated Press. Winning First Team berths by a landslide were (left to right) O. J. Simpson of USC, the nation's leading rusher; Gary Beban of UCLA, the

Youngsville Matmen Lose First Home Match, 49-11

BY DAN PRATZ
YOUNGSVILLE—The Youngsville Eagles held their first intercollegiate wrestling meet in the history of the school here last night as they hosted the Cassadaga Valley Cougars. The match turned out badly for the Eagles, but it was evident to the fans that the sport of wrestling was off to a good start for the Red and White. Coach Bob Lindsey boasted a team of young Eagles who showed much promise despite the final score of 49-11.

Youngsville opened at Watsburg last Tuesday for a non-league match with the Bobcats and came out on the short end of a 63-3 tilt.

The Eagles got off to an excellent start as 95 pound Bob Sedlak felled his opponent, Dave Breth, in the first period to give the Eagles a six-point lead.

Cougar Tom Hale, tried to even up the score in the 103-pound class as he scored a takedown and a predicament in the first period against Ed Coons. However, Hale had to settle for a second period fall and only five points as he succeeded in pinning Coons within the first minute of the period.

Eagle Max Collins, at 112, came back strong for the Red and White by chalking up a pin in the second period. From that point on, the match was entirely Cassadaga's as two decisions to finish the night out.

Pins at 127 and 133 didn't come so easy, however, as Eagles Bill Holcomb (127) and Rick Blakeslee (133) fought into the third period. The first decision of the evening came in

Pro Golfer Winger Dead at 45

OKLAHOMA CITY Okla. (AP) — Professional golfer Francis "Bo" Winger, 45, died in a hospital Thursday, one week after he entered suffering a stroke.

His doctor disclosed this week that Winger's illness would cost him his career because his right side would be paralyzed.

Winger played in a half dozen tournaments this year and won only $150. He won only five tournaments in his career, yet picked up $155,000.

In his college playing days—for Oklahoma State—he captured the Missouri Valley Conference title four years in a row and was state amateur king. He turned professional in 1952.

Winger has said his biggest thrill in sports was in football when he was a halfback.

He came, he recalled, when he scored a touchdown for St. Mary's Pre-Flight School during World War II service in the Navy Air Corps.

Survivors include the widow, Rita; two daughters, Lisa Lee, 14, and Holly Joyce, 12.

Winger resigned recently as a club pro in Las Vegas, Nev.

Rockets Win 118-110 Over Bulls

CHICAGO (AP) — The San Diego Rockets, trailing by as many as 13 points, put on a torrid fourth-quarter finish Thursday night to defeat the Chicago Bulls 118-110 in a National Basketball Association contest.

The Rockets, who trailed 54-39, left the court at halftime, behind by 10, 59-49. Reserve John Green wound up with 23 points.

Green, who added nine points in the final quarter, got all the help he needed from former Bull Don Kojis, who scored 21 points.

San Diego took the lead for good 85-88 on a jump shot by Green and then Kojis and John Block connected on seven straight points to sew up the Rockets' sixth victory, Chicago, which lost three players on fouls, was paced by Bob Boozer, who had 23 points.

Columbia's Donelli Resigns Job

NEW YORK (AP) — Aldo T. "Biff" Donelli, Columbia's football coach for the past 11 years, resigned Thursday.

Donelli, whose team posted a 2-7 record during the 1967 season and finished in the Ivy League cellar, will remain at the school until June.

In his letter of resignation, Donelli, who is 60 years old, said he hopes "I have made some contribution to Columbia's football over the years. I wish Columbia football well in the years to come."

A Columbia spokesman said search for a new coach would begin immediately but said he was "sure nobody has been approached yet."

In his 11 years as head coach, Donelli's team posted 30 victories, 67 losses and two ties. In his 25 years as a college coach, his teams have a record of 105-107-8.

Before coming to Columbia, he was head coach at Duquesne and Boston University. His best season was in 1961 when Columbia had a 6-3 record and tied Harvard for the Ivy League title.

Since the school started playing football in 1872, it has had only 10 professional coaches.

Bucyk Posts Record In Bruins' Triumph

BOSTON (AP) — Winger Johnny Bucyk became the highest scorer in Boston National Hockey League history by firing his 17th and 18th goals of the season Thursday night in the Bruins' 3-1 victory over the New York Rangers.

Bucyk boosted his career point total in Boston to 576, bettering the old club record of 575 set by Milt Schmidt, now the Bruins' general manager.

Bobby Orr scored the other Boston goal, his seventh, as the Bruins defeated the Rangers for the fourth straight time this season and extended their unbeaten string to seven games.

The victory increased Boston's Eastern Division lead to three points over idle Toronto.

Bucyk, who has scored 234 goals and collected 342 assists in 10 years with the Bruins, scored on a power play midway through the first period. Orr made the count 2-0 on a 45-foot slap shot less than two minutes later.

Jean Ratelle spoiled Boston goalie Ed Johnston's shutout bid with a goal on a 40-foot slap shot

Tony Tomassoni Chairman of Junior League

It was announced yesterday that Tony Tomassoni has accepted the chairmanship of the Junior Hi-Y Basketball League program at the YMC. for the 1967-68 season.

Tomassoni has been active in various phases of the YMCA program for many years, and is noted for his work with the Hot Stove League baseball program, the Warren Sports Boosters and the City Softball League. He will also become a member of the YMCA Youth Work Committee.

Registration for the 12th season of the league is open to all members of the YMCA in the 7th, 8th and 9th grades and will be held Saturday from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Merger Planned by Rival American Soccer Leagues

NEW YORK (AP) — A merger agreement between the rival National Professional Soccer League and the United Soccer Association has been worked out, Dick Walsh, commissioner of the USA, announced Thursday.

"Many details remain to be worked out," Walsh said in a prepared statement.

Included, he added, were negotiations for recognition of NPSL teams by governing bodies of the sport, the United States Soccer Football Association, the Canadian Soccer Football Association and the Federation International De Football Association.

Walsh disclosed that the merged league will operate with separate United and National Divisions, and that substantial interdivision play is planned.

The USA has 12 teams while the NPSL has 11, including Boston, which is scheduled to begin operations next season. Six cities have teams in both leagues.

The San Francisco team of the USA has merged with Vancouver of the same circuit, Walsh explained. He added that final decisions on the other two team cities — Boston, New York, Los Angeles, Chicago and Toronto — are expected shortly.

It is contemplated, the commissioner revealed, that under the reorganized setup, both New York and Los Angeles, will have only one team. New York will be assigned to the National Division and Los Angeles to the United Division.

Walsh will serve as president of the United Division, and Ken Mackay, the NPSL commissioner, will head the National Division.

Final alignment of the two divisions is to be determined at a joint meeting scheduled for Dec. 13 in Chicago.

Walsh said the preliminary merger agreement was reached Tuesday during a meeting in Cleveland of merger committees representing both circuits.

Red Wings, Canadiens Tie at 2-2

MONTREAL (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings, stung by two Montreal goals in 72 seconds early in the second period, countered on Floyd Smith's power play tally and gained a 2-2 National Hockey League standoff with the Canadiens Thursday night.

The tie extended Detroit's unbeaten streak to five games and sent the third place Wings two points ahead of New York and Chicago in the East Division race.

Trailing 1-0 after the first period, the Canadiens seized the lead when rookie Mickey Redmond scored at 4:01 of the middle session and Jean Beliveau connected at the 5:13 mark.

But Smith converted Ted Hampson's pass with four minutes remaining in the period and Montreal's Bobby Rousseau serving a tripping penalty.

Goalies Gump Worsley of Montreal and Roy Edwards of the Wings then duelled through a scoreless final period, preserving the deadlock.

Alex Delvecchio scored Detroit's first goal midway in the opening period.

AND A CLOUD OF DUST

Making more like Michigan style football than basketball, Bob Sullivan loses the ball as he attempts to drive between two Duke cagers, Steve Vandenberg (52) and Mike Lewis (42) while going for a shot in the first half of Wednesday night's game at Ann Arbor. Duke won it, 93-72.

NPSL last season were Chicago, Pittsburgh, Oakland, Atlanta, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, St. Louis, Toronto and Los Angeles.

The USA had clubs in Washington, Cleveland, Toronto, Detroit, New York, Boston, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Chicago, Houston, Vancouver and Dallas.

The leagues appeared to be close to a merger months ago, but agreement fell through, reportedly because of minor squabbling. The NPSL then filed an $18 million anti-trust suit against the USSFA and the USA.

After the United League was formed, it gained sanction from the USSFA. But the governing body withheld similar action from two other petitioners, and those two then formed the NPSL. The National League immediately was branded as outlaw.

Both leagues began play this year, however, and the NPSL had a television contract with the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Attendance was not good in either league, and teams in both leagues reportedly lost money.

Ramblin' Gypsy Joe Absent at Physical

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Gypsy Joe Harris doesn't show on time for training. He doesn't show up at all for physical examinations. All he does is win.

The unbeaten Philadelphia welterweight did it again Thursday. He let the Pennsylvania athletic commissioner, the commission doctor and a number of boxing writers cool their heels.

Harris was slated to appear at noon for his physical for Monday night's scheduled 10-rounder against Miguel Barreto of Puerto Rico. Harris' co-manager, Yancey Durham, in a 11 y showed at 1:08 p.m. and told commissioner Frank Wildman: "I don't know where he (Harris) is."

That will cost you $50, and the next time it will be $500," Wildman told the manager.

"I hope there won't be a next time," Durham replied.

Harris, an overgrown welterweight ranked in the top two among challengers for Curtis Cokes' 147-pound crown — depending on which rating you read — has won all of his 22 fights. An unorthodox fighter who drops his hands at his sides and performs gyrations in the

Buche De Noel

A sheet of sponge or chiffon cake, wrapped roly-poly style about a Nesselrode filling, gives a new twist to a traditional holiday dessert.

Roly-Poly Nesselrode is a take-off on the old Yule Log or Buche de Noel. It usually is finished off with a deep chocolate frosting swirled and ruffled to resemble the bark of a fire log.

You see, it is traditional at Christmas time in many lands to burn a log. Some people light one on Christmas Eve to herald the season; others burn it for the twelve nights of the season. It is said that a bit of the bark just kept around assures a fine crop come summer. And, it is a nostalgic custom to link the happiness of one Yule Season to the next with a torch from an old Yule Log to light the new season's fire.

In one way or another, lights are part of the Christmas observance for nearly everyone. So, too, are Christmas cakes.

It's appropriate that our recipe offering for this season of the year is a new version of the cherished old Yule Log cake. The sponge cake sheet can be your own favorite "made from scratch" recipe or a convenient boxed substitute, Lemon Chiffon Cake. The finished and cooled layer is rolled around a custard - filling, made newly-delicat yet creamy-rich with evaporated skimmed milk. Make the filling festive with Nesselrode Sauce (and a little rum if you like). And when the cake is snugly rolled, sprinkle the top with a draft of confectioners sugar.

For holiday weight-watchers this is a lovely idea, for the filling is virtually fat-free when evaporated skimmed milk is used. This light and lovely dessert idea is borne out because sponge and chiffon cakes are so much less calorie-laden than butter-based cakes. And powdered sugar garnish cuts down on calories, too, compared with icings.

ROLY-POLY NESSELRODE

1 pkg. lemon chiffon cake mix
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup flour
1 2/3 cups PET Evaporated Skimmed Milk
1 cup water
1 cup Nesselrode Sauce
1/4 cup rum
2 teasp. vanilla
few drops red food color

Preheat oven to 350°. Mix cake as package directs. Pour into two ungreased 16 x 11 x 1-inch jelly roll pans. Spread gently to all sides. Bake 20 to 25 minutes. Cool 10 minutes. Loosen sides and ease cake from pan onto towel sprinkled with powdered sugar. Starting at narrow end, roll cake and towel together. Cool on wire rack. Mix sugar and flour in 2-quart saucepan. Stir in milk and water gradually until smooth. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture bubbles. Boil and stir 1 minute. Take off heat. Stir in remaining ingredients. Chill. Unroll one cake. Spread with half of filling. Roll up. Sprinkle with more powdered sugar. Decorate with candied fruit. Repeat with second cake and remaining filling. Makes two Roly-Poly Nesselrodes.

Carelessness To Cost the Customer

NEW DELHI (AP)—Carelessness with the telephone directory is going to be costly in New Delhi.

Telephone officials have decided that people who turn in mutilated directories in exchange for new ones will have to pay instead of receiving the new one free.

The reason is that the telephone company sells the old directories to people who paste the pages into small paper bags. They refuse to buy mutilated directories.

Quite often it is the "senior citizen" who is most difficult to buy for — but it needn't be so. Gifts that "look ahead" are always appreciated . . . gifts such as a subscription to a magazine or book club, or a roll of postage stamps in a pretty container.

1500 Teachers Converge On Capitol for PSEA Meet

HARRISBURG (AP) — More than 1,000 delegates to the Pennsylvania State Education Association (PSEA) convention responded with a standing ovation Thursday to a militant keynote speech demanding higher pay for teachers.

The keynote speaker, Dr. Sam M. Lambert, executive secretary of the million-member National Education Association, said teachers across the nation have grown bolder in expressing their demands to local school boards, state legislatures and governors.

"They are not ready to shoot anybody, but they are talking back," Lambert said. "And I say, thank God. Maybe we're going to get somewhere now."

Lambert's remark, and others like it, drew heavy applause from the obviously responsive audience.

Earlier, Senate Majority Leader Stanley G. Stroup, R-Bedford, had cautioned the teachers that further efforts on their part to win a pay increase would be "untimely and a prime effort in futility."

Stroup, who stood in for Gov. Shafer, said a bill to raise the minimum starting salary for Pennsylvania teachers from $4,500 to $6,000 a year is before the Senate, but cannot be considered until the stalemate over taxes is broken.

"Grant us your tolerance and forbearance," Stroup said.

Shafer, who is attending a Republican governors' conference in Florida, sent the delegates a telegram wishing them success in their deliberations.

Lambert, in an indirect rebuttal to Stroup's plea for patience and moderation, said teachers have waited long enough for higher pay.

"I believe a teacher's job is more important than a construction worker's," he said, "and I am determined to make it pay more."

Studies have shown that 57 per cent of the nation's male teachers must hold down a second job to earn the $9,200 the federal government considers the minimum basic cost of living for a family of four, Lambert said.

"The only way a male teacher can make it," Lambert said, "is to tell his wife to get the hell out of the house and get a job."

Lambert predicted that teacher walkouts, like those staged in many parts of the nation last fall, will continue to occur until salary demands are met.

"The NEA stands solidly behind teachers," he said. "We are going to see that teachers get what they deserve, and we don't care what anybody says about it."

Teachers can best attain their demands through the efforts of professional associations rather than through the American Federation of Teachers, an AFL-

CIO affiliated union, Lambert contended.

"Let's stop reacting to the union," he said. "Let's develop our own active programs and let the union react to us. Let's do what's best for teachers and children and to hell with the union."

Membership in the teachers' union has grown by only 80,000 since 1960, Lambert said, while NEA membership has increased 400,000 in the same period.

The three-day convention continues Friday with policy discussions, passage of resolutions and election of officers.

Members of the teachers' union has grown by only 80,000 since 1960, Lambert said, while NEA membership has increased 400,000 in the same period.

The three-day convention continues Friday with policy discussions, passage of resolutions and election of officers.

One of the resolutions expected to be adopted will deal with the PSEA's reaction to the delay on the teachers' salary bill.

Dr. Wade Wilson, PSEA president, announced earlier that he would read the resolution on the steps of the Capitol Friday afternoon before delivering it to the governor's office.

Friday evening, Dr. David H. Kurtzman, state superintendent of public instruction, is scheduled to give what is expected to be a significant speech to the delegates.

At the closing session Saturday, president-elect Joseph Standa will be installed.

Planners Want to Slash Funds for National Guard

WASHINGTON (AP) — Budget planners want to slash funds for training key National Guard and Reserve units. The Army is fighting the move.

Budget planners seek to slash $52 million from funds proposed for training and supporting a 150,000-man force of Army National Guard and Reserve units which would be the first called up in a war emergency, Pentagon sources said Thursday.

The result as they picture it would be to stretch from eight to about 12 weeks the time in which high-priority Guard and Reserve units would be ready for deployment after being mobilized.

In addition to limiting training, the money cut would reduce supply purchases for the Selected Reserve Force.

The issue is being debated as Pentagon officials shape the defense budget President Johnson will send to Congress next month.

Army officials are reported arguing strongly for retention of the $52 million. Some sources predict they will be upheld by top Pentagon authorities.

There is strong pressure throughout the defense establishment to hold down any spending unrelated to the Vietnam war.

Meanwhile, only one state—New Jersey—was said to be withholding approval of a new reorganization plan for the Guard and Reserves. However, the reorganization is being put into effect by stages across the country and is due to be completed by May 31.

Defense authorities say the fighting edge of the Reserve forces will be further sharpened by this third major shakeup of the Guard and Reserve structure under Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

Prank Call?

Titusville police were alerted Wednesday that a pickup truck had been seen leaving Meadville on Route 27, driven by a woman with a man holding a gun at her head.

Police drove a few miles out on Route 27 but failed to spot the vehicle.

State police at Meadville said Wednesday night that four state police cruisers had been scanning the Meadville area for the truck but as of yesterday had turned up nothing.

Police said the call they received may have been a prank or from someone who thought he saw what he actually did not.

Ascendancy Confirmed

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
BUCHAREST — The unchallenged ascendancy of Nicolae Ceausescu, the dynamic 49-year-old Rumanian Communist party leader, was confirmed Thursday when he was asked to take over as head of state as well.

In a curious example of Rumanian Communist protocol, the official nomination was left to Chivu Stoica, the present chief of state who is 10 years older than Ceausescu.

Whatever his inner emotions may have been, Stoica, a bald former railroad worker, smiled beatifically when he talked himself out of office.

Gov. Kirk Says Wallace Is A Flaming Liberal

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
PALM BEACH, Fla. — Gov. Claude R. Kirk Jr. Thursday called on Southern voters to reject the third party appeal of George C. Wallace in 1968 because the former Alabama governor is "a flaming liberal."

"On the basis of his record in office," the Florida Republican declared, "Wallace is a flaming liberal when it comes to spending. All he did was spend, spend, and he was the first one in line for the federal handouts in Washington."

Kirk, one of his party's chief Southern spokesmen, is leading an attempt to provide "counter-notoriety" for Wallace in the states in which his candidacy might attract anti-Johnson votes that would otherwise probably go to the Republican Presidential candidate next year.

Not only is Wallace a liberal masquerading as a conservative, the Floridian charged, but a poor spokesman for the cause of law and order.

"He stands up and says he would put 30,000 policemen in Washington to protect against demonstrators, but what is his record on crime in Alabama?"

Kirk asked, "The record of crime in Alabama is worse than it's ever been."

The Florida governor was interviewed in a beach cabana at The Breakers, the hotel where the Republican Governors Association will open a two-day conference Friday.

Kirk, a Democrat until 1960, was born in Alabama and went to college and law school there. His father is a finance officer in the administration of Gov. Lurleen Wallace.

"It's un-American to vote for Wallace," he declared. "That would be throwing away your vote, and that would be un-American."

Kirk expects to run as a favorite-son candidate in next May's Florida presidential primary and is regarded by some Republicans as a vice presidential possibility.

During their meeting, the 26 Republican governors—the first national majority the party has enjoyed since 1955—will discuss their role in the 1968 Republican convention and the ensuing campaign on the national, state and congressional level.

The 1,150 delegates to the party's national conference greeted Stoica's brief suggestion in a long speech with a standing ovation which resounded for more than a minute in the modern palace of the nation auditorium.

Stoica stated the obvious when he told delegates that "I express the conviction that this proposal corresponds to the wishes of the National Party Conference."

Friday the conference is expected to approve en bloc Ceausescu's radical administrative and economic reforms which will then be quickly voted into law by the Grand National Assembly beginning Saturday.

The next speaker Thursday morning was Virgil Trofin, who suggested eliminating a clause in the party statutes forbidding party leaders from holding dual party and government functions on a full time basis.

Curiously, Ceausescu had been a prime mover in 1965 in having that stipulation added to the statutes following the Dej, the longtime Rumanian Communist leader who was both head of state and party chief.

At that time the stipulation was used, among other things, to force Alexandru Dragichi, a potential rival to Ceausescu, to give up his long term stewardship of the secret police. In return for resigning formally as interior minister, he kept his position on the key nine man party standing presidium which is the inner circle of power.

Thanks to the proposals by Stoica and Trofin, Ceausescu has managed in less than three years as a party leader to exercise as much power as his longtime protector, the late Gheorghe-Dej.

Ceausescu's consolidation of power is generally seen as reflecting the gradual takeover by the younger "second generation" Rumanian Communists who are replacing the older men influential in party affairs since before World War II.

In other Eastern European Communist countries, the older generation still exercises power.

BE EXTRA ALERT IN BAD WEATHER

WINNER, AAA TRAFFIC SAFETY POSTER CONTEST

AAA Calls for Extra Caution During Holidays

Warren County Motor Club urges pedestrians to put special emphasis on being alert in traffic during the month of December.

"Bad weather, plus the holiday rush, magnifies the ordinary problems of traffic to enormous proportions," stated D. E. Schuler, manager of the Club. "Though it is always tempting for pedestrians to disregard traffic regulations in rain, sleet and snow as they hurry to get out of the storm, to get their shopping done and to get home, this is the worst possible time to be careless. Decreased visibility and poorer vehicle control due to bad weather are critical problems to drivers, as are slippery streets and sidewalks and blinding storms to pedestrians.

"Make sure your children make a special effort to observe safety measures during the bad weather season—and set the example for them yourself."

He also cautioned parents to check their children's clothing, making sure raincoats and snow jackets are brightly colored, rainhats and hoods fit properly so children can both see and be seen. "The poster above is a delightful example of alertness and proper dress during bad weather," he said. "Make sure your children are as well prepared for holiday safety as the children in the poster."

Citizens Committee Spends Over $10,000 on Campaign

Candidates in the November general election have filed their campaign expenses as required, meeting the required deadline yesterday.

Blain M. Mead, winner in a hotly contested race sparked by a Citizens Committee for Dr. David K. Rice, expended $505.26, according to the records while the citizens committee has disbursed $9,961.28 to date with $1,728.32 listed as unpaid obligations.

The committee's report, submitted by C. T. Berdine, treasurer, includes the complete list of those who contributed to the GOP write-in campaign with amounts ranging from $10 to $1,500, the latter the largest given toward the effort. Other amounts were $100, $200 and $500 with other amounts in between that range.

Democrat Thomas Donnelly, victorious in the county commissioner election, filed an affidavit stating his expenses did not exceed $150. Other candidates making similar reports were Sheriff D. E. Allen Jr., Dr. David K. Rice, county commissioner; Florence Hoffman, county treasurer; James G. Marshall, defeated commissioner candidate; William F. Clinger Jr., delegate to constitutional convention and Gurney Ball for the Republican committee in Youngsville.

Zoning Procedure Modified For Protesting Townships

(TMO Harrisburg Bureau) HARRISBURG -- Residents of second class townships, such as the 22 in Warren County, in protesting changes in their township zoning regulations will find the procedure modified somewhat under terms of a new law signed by the Governor.

Previously a protest to a township zoning change required that the protest be signed by owners of 20 per cent or more "either of the area of the lots included in such proposed change or those immediately adjacent in the rear or in the front or to either side thereof extending 100 feet from the street frontage of such opposite lots."

Under the new law Warren County's second class township residents desiring to protest a zoning change must still muster 20 per cent of the owners of land but the new stipulation spells out the "protesting owners of land" as being "of the land area of the parcel of land proposed to be changed or signed by the owners of 20 per cent or more of the total abutting linear periphery of the parcel of land proposed to be changed wherein the frontage on the opposite side of water courses, streets and railroads shall be considered as abutting."

The law requires that when such protest has been filed, the change in the zoning law shall not become effective unless approved by a majority of the township supervisors. (During the course of the bill through the Legislature, this "majority" had been changed to "two thirds" vote of the supervisors but was stricken from the legislation in favor of continuing the "majority" proviso for approval.)

Lay Plans To Join Forest Service

Republican County Commissioner D. H. Lay, defeated for a second term in the May primary election plans to pull up stakes and start a new career with the U.S. Forest Service.

As of the first of the year Lay and his wife expect to be settled in their new quarters at Camp Blue Jay near Marienville.

Both will be involved in the Job Corps program, Lay to be a resident worker, on the Forest Service payroll and Mrs. Lay to teach reading and arithmetic to the boys at the camp.

The county commissioner has been a member of the Warren County Camp Blue Jay Council, which has been responsible for liaison with the camp on matters of recreation and entertainment along with any relationship the camp and its residents have had with communities in the Warren County area.

Mrs. Lay has resigned her position with the Warren County School District.

The Lays have lived all their lives in Warren County and are reluctant to leave. They said, however, they are looking forward to the challenge of their new careers.

Hearing Set For Cobbett

CORRY -- A former Spartansburg man, one-time manager of the Dean Phipps store here, has been scheduled for a hearing before Alderman M. S. Cobbett in Corry on January 5 on a charge of embezzlement.

At arraignment before Cobbett this week, James F. Benner, 25, of RD 1, Bellefonte, was advised of his rights and ordered to appear for the January hearing.

The case began last February when Benner, who was manager of the Phipps Auto Supply store here, left the area and allegedly took money belonging to the store with him. The store chain filed a charge of embezzlement.

Benner went from Corry to Bellefonte, where he was picked up on a charge of burglary and sentenced to jail. Meanwhile a warrant from Cobbett was used as a detainer awaiting the time when Benner would be released from prison.

He was released Monday and Cobbett with Constable Donald Watts of Union City, went to Bellefonte, picked him up and returned him to Corry for arraignment.

DU BOIS -- A DuBois youth, 18-year-old Ralph L. Hand, is awaiting Clearfield County court action on a charge of corrupting the morals of children filed by state police of the DuBois substation.

Hand was arrested Nov. 24 and arraigned on the charge. He posted $500 bond for his appearance in court, police said.

According to police, Hand drove two runaway DuBois girls, aged 13 and 16, to Erie on Nov. 19. The trio returned to DuBois in the early morning hours of Nov. 21.

Subsequent investigation of the incident led to the arrest of Hand Nov. 24.

Another 18-year-old DuBois is in Clearfield County jail charged with forced rape in connection with the rape of a 12-year-old girl last July 26.

Arrested by state police Monday and charged was Robert W. Kurten. He was committed to jail following arraignment in default of $2,500 bail. Police said the incident took place in a strip mine area near Rockton.

Charged In Gun Incident

TITUSVILLE -- A charge of pointing a deadly weapon has been filed against a local man in connection with a shooting in the city November 17, according to Titusville police.

Police said Barry Hawke of Titusville was arraigned Wednesday before Alderman N. Allen Love. Police said other possible charges are pending as a result of the shooting and subsequent beating Hawke allegedly received from John Hasbrouck, also of Titusville.

Police said the incident stemmed from an argument the two men had at the Eagles Club. Hawke allegedly left the club after the initial exchange, returned with a shotgun and fired at Hasbrouck as he was leaving. The blast narrowly missed Hasbrouck, reportedly coming so close that his jacket was damaged.

As a result of the ensuing fist fight, Hawke was hospitalized with a broken nose and concussion.

(TMO Harrisburg Bureau) HARRISBURG -- School subsidy payment in the amount of $1,124,438.66 for Warren County School District has been approved by the Department of Public Instruction and forwarded by the state treasurer to the local school district treasurer, a check by the Times-Mirror and Observer disclosed yesterday.

The payment represents semi-annual state reimbursement covering the school year ending June 30, 1967, and is made to cover such items as reimbursable teaching units, supplemental payment on account of jointure membership or union or merged districts, extension education, homebound instruction and special education.

ColumbusBoard Elects Officers

The Columbus School Board Monday night seated two new directors, elected officers and hired a secretary and treasurer at its annual organizational meeting.

The two new members joining the group are Herbert Helder and Mrs. Quentin McCray. They replace Hollis Upperman and Basil Pokosh, both of whom declined to run for re-election.

In election of officers, Joseph Pitcavage was named president; Eugene Bloom, vice president and Louis Ball, secretary. The latter is not a board member.

Pitcavage was named delegate to the joint committee, Harry Jacquith, first alternate, Mrs. McCray, second alternate and Helder, third alternate.

Pokosh was elected to the treasurer's post even though he is not a board member.

In other business, members learned that for the third straight month, all bills could be paid. The announcement came after a prolonged period in which the board had to borrow to meet current expenses.

Cafeteria losses since school opened in September had climbed to $275 because of initial purchases in large quantities of staples, but by the end of October, the board was told, the deficit had shrunk to $43.

The board also discussed the fact that two students who live in Spring Creek have been attending school in Columbus. The board expects to go after some tuition money.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My neighbor has gotten into the habit of doing her marketing with me. I have a car and she does not. At first I didn't mind helping her out but now I am getting sick of it because she does things that embarrass me. Last week she stood in the fresh fruit and vegetable department and picked through four boxes of berries to put together a perfect box for herself. Then she stuck her thumb through two tomatoes and a plum to make sure she was getting her "money's worth." She is constantly accusing the butcher of short-weighting her and once she walked behind the meat counter to get a close look at the scale. He told her to get back where she belonged and they got into an awful argument. Yesterday they advertised a special on chickens and when we got there they had run out. She made a scene and everyone stood around like it was a show. I walked out and waited for her in the car.

This woman has done me many favors and I want to reciprocate but her antics are a bit too much. I'd like your advice.

—BLUSHING BEATRICE

DEAR B: Drive your friend to the store, lose her once you get there and arrange to meet in the car. If it will make you feel better, tell her what you are doing and why. It won't change her conduct but it will make an honest woman of you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: May I comment on your criticism of the minister who, after performing the wedding ceremony, turned to the guests and said, "I would like to introduce Mr. and Mrs. _____". Everyone laughed and applauded as if they were watching a musical comedy. Your attack on the minister for his "theatrics" was unjust.

As the wife of a clergyman I could tell you stories that would make your hair stand up on end. Your criticism should be leveled not at the minister but the members of the congregation. They should be ashamed of themselves for pressuring him to introduce cheap gimmicks into church rituals.

My husband feels, as you do, that show biz has no place in a religious service. Unfortunately the trend is that weddings are becoming more social and less sacred. When important members of the congregation insist certain things be done, the minister finds it virtually impossible to refuse.

Blaming the clergyman seems to be everyone's favorite sport, but I was surprised to see you join that unthinking group. —DISAPPOINTED

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: In the final analysis it is the clergyman who decides how much, if any, show biz antics will be incorporated into a sacred ceremony. The minister who caves in to demands which he feels aren't proper does a grave disservice to his faith, his congregation and himself.

CONFIDENTIAL TO TIRED OF THE RAT RACE: You know very well what you ought to do. You just need someone to tell you to go ahead and do it. So, I'm telling you. The trouble with rat races are that the rats sometimes win.

Give in or lose him... when a guy gives you this line, look out! For tips on how to handle the super sex salesman, check Ann Landers. Read her booklet, "Necking and Petting—What Are The Limits?" ### Chefs Prepare For Wedding Feast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two chefs, expert in international cuisine, are preparing a mouth-watering array of hot and cold food for the White House wedding reception of Lynda Johnson and Marine Captain Charles Robb on Saturday.

The buffet, to be served at small round tables in the State Dining Room and a pink-lined, heated tent set up on an adjoining rooftop terrace, will provide late afternoon snacks, rather than dinner fare, for the 500 wedding guests invited to the 4 p.m. wedding.

The traditional champagne-American will be served, plus drinks and a special gingerale and fruit punch.

Here's the list of delicacies as issued by the White House:

Hot dishes—lobster Barquettes (broiled in oval pastry shells), crabmeat Bouchees (in shells), stuffed mushrooms, miniature shishkebab, Quiche Lorraine (a baked dish of eggs, cheese and ham), country ham and bisquets.

Cold Platters include sliced smoked salmon sprinkled with capers, molds of chicken liver pate, iced shrimp with dressing, assorted raw vegetables with watercress and Roquefort dip, assorted cheeses and finger sandwiches.

An assortment of sweets includes the 6-foot tall, fondant-iced wedding cake, miniature eclairs and cream puffs, chocolate roulades, strawberry, apricot and blueberry tartlettes and petit fours.

Most North-South pairs were content to play a part score contract in either clubs or diamonds when the above hand was dealt in a recent tournament. Declarer succeeded in taking 9, 10, or even 11 tricks depending on which suit was trump and how he played the diamonds.

At one table, where the auction proceeded as indicated in the diagram, North refused to settle for the part score and pushed to an aggressive game. South's initial response of one no trump designates a holding containing 6 to 10 high card points. When he rebid two no trump he was telling partner that he held the maximum. Inasmuch as North has only 14 high card points, the combined total cannot exceed 24 and he should, therefore, refuse the invitation to carry on.

West opened the deuce of hearts against three no trump and East's king dislodged declarer's ace. The ten of diamonds was led at trick two. West covered with the king and North played the ace. East observed that, if he followed suit with the nine, one more lead would dislodge the queen and probably establish enough tricks to fulfill declarer's quota on the deal.

In an attempt to disrupt the normal course of events, East dropped the queen of diamonds under the ace—as if he held a singleton. It now appeared to South that West had started with four diamonds headed by the king, nine, in which case, if the closed hand was reentered to put the seven thru, declarer could pick up the entire suit.

Four rounds of clubs were cashed first on which East discarded two hearts while West parted with a spade. Now a spade was played to the ace, so that South could lead the seven of diamonds. West followed with the four and the deuce was confidently played from dummy.

To South's consternation, the nine of diamonds appeared from East's hand, and a heart return thru the jack enabled West to mop up three more tricks. The queen of spades was cashed next to send declarer down to a most humiliating setback.

Altho overtricks represent an important feature of the scoring in tournament bridge, South was nevertheless guilty of avarice on the deal. When the king and queen of diamonds appeared on the first lead of the suit, he is in position to establish 10 tricks by merely cashing the jack and then presumably conceding a trick to West's nine. The fact that North and South have bid a game that other pairs may not reach should influence declarer to play safe for his contract.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars. FOR FRIDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1967

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—Ask, if in doubt, but do not become unsettled at every sign of complexity. In general, hold the line against wavering and lack of confidence. Display your talents.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 20)—Fine Venus influences encourage the best use of your talents now. Don't abandon new projects without giving them fair trial. There is more room at the top than you may believe.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—You may have an unusual opportunity to advance your interests immediately—one which could have an important bearing on your future as well. Be ready to accept.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—This is no time for dwelling on old errors, except to recognize that they must not be repeated. On with your present program—especially if it's been built on a solid foundation and is the result of progressive ideas.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Do not lower your dignity by using strong-arm or other forceful measures to achieve success. You will accomplish more through calmness, serenity.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—A new goal in mind? Stop to ascertain first what is really required, then note how and where to achieve it. A consultation with knowledgeable heads could help.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Why not step out in more venturesome manner if you have the facts and your intuition tells you that the time is ripe? If not reckless, you might walk right into a wonderful new opportunity.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 23)—A chance now to see things in quiet perspective. Stand back to look things over—but only those concerned with the present; forget the past.

SAGITTARIUS (November 24 to December 21)—Your Jupiter highly auspicious! Day spells action, determination, aggressiveness. Rouse yourself to that added effort which brings such sweet compensation.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Crush any inclination to postpone things. As with Sagittarius, NOW is the time for action. Strike while the time is propitious and the opposition is off balance. In your eagerness, however, don't swerve off on a tangent—it could cause delay.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Direct your very effective energies down a worthwhile road. You can be adroit, resourceful, a winner in any competition, when you will. Will it NOW!

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—The emphasis now is on choosing the correct project on which to shower your handiwork. But be practical. No wishful thinking!

YOU BORN TODAY are idealistic; can act expeditiously in emergencies. Rarely does a Sagittarian fall down on a task, or unwisely cut corners to save time. You can be perceptively practical and instinctively know what are essentials and what are side issues. You examine well; are responsible, naturally upright, peace-loving, but will shoulder your load in any necessary battle. Birthdate of: Horace, Roman poet; Christina, 17th cent. ## How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

THE "R FACTOR"

When certain bacteria develop a resistance to one antibiotic they automatically become resistant to others. This phenomenon, known as multiple drug resistance, has been dubbed the "R factor" (not to be confused with the R factor). Additional research showed that the "R factor" stems from chromosomal changes in the bacteria. These changes become an hereditary characteristic which is passed along to succeeding generations of germs.

Discovery of the "R factor" should not be misconstrued as a victory of bacteria over penicillin and other antibiotics. The phenomenon does not occur in common microbes such as strep, staph, diphtheria, and tubercle bacilli.

Only two dozen different bacteria that induce a variety of gastrointestinal problems are involved. One of these causes salmonellosis, another is responsible for typhoid fever. Recovery is spontaneous in many of these diseases, but in some instances, it takes several weeks.

According to a report in the Journal of the American Medical Association, from 70 to 80 per cent of shigella isolates from major Japanese cities showed multiple drug resistance. This is not too serious because antibiotics are not the best remedy in shigellosis. Resistance to one or more antibiotics was found in 14 per cent of 254 cases of salmonella in the New York area.

Also cited was an example of the role of the "R factor" in a typical hospital. Ten healthy infants developed diarrhea and vomiting. A colon bacillus (E. coli) was the offender. None of the babies had received antibiotics yet 8 eventually became resistant to four or more agents. All recovered. Resistance to antibiotics often developed within 4 days after therapy.

The interesting feature is that antimicrobial resistance is transferable to other microbes. This is why penicillin and other antibiotics should not be used to treat infections in which recovery occurs without these potent drugs.

WHY FEET BURN

H.V.D. writes: A friend who does a lot of walking has a burning sensation on the soles of his feet summer and winter. Can you advise?

REPLY

Victims of erythromelalgia complain of burning feet particularly when the legs hang down in a dependent position or when covered with a blanket. Allergy to an irritant in the hose or shoes is another possible cause.

HEAD OF BED FACING EAST

H.M.Y. writes: Are any benefits to be gained by sleeping with the head of the bed facing east?

REPLY

None, even tho you may be sleeping in a Mohammedan bed.

TRACTION FOR JOINTS

P.Y. writes: Is traction used in the treatment of arthritis of the back?

REPLY

Yes, particularly when more conservative medical measures fail to give relief.

TODAY'S HEALTH HINT

Prolonged depression warrants a thoro medical examination.

THE NOW AND THEN OF PERFUME

THEN. The first modern French perfume to be created for a woman was Belloc's. It was made for the Empress Eugenie because she doted on the scent of carnations. Floris invented a potpourri for Queen Mary of England, since she loved this gentle scent in her home and was reputed to use bottles of it in her bath. The Duchess of Windsor uses mostly Balenciaga's perfumes... "even on her pet pugs!" And the latest perfume to be created for one woman was L'interdit by Givenchy, for Audrey Hepburn. "I wanted a perfume to complement the clothes I designed for her!"

Court Holds Wiretapping Decision Not Retroactive

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York's highest court held Thursday that the recent U.S. Supreme Court decision striking down the state's wiretapping law may not be applied retroactively to overturn criminal convictions.

The Court of Appeals made this ruling in rejecting a plea by a man who was convicted of attempted extortion on evidence obtained by police wiretap.

The defendant, Thomas R. Kaiser, who operated a bar and grill in Jamaica, was convicted in Nassau County Court in August 1964 and sentenced to a prison term of 1½ to 7 years. He had been accused of trying to obtain money by force and threats from Irving Holtzman of Roslyn, wealthy operator of business in juke-boxes and other coin-operated machines.

In appealing to the high court, Kaiser's lawyers cited a decision by the U.S. Supreme Court last June that overturned the bribery conviction of Ralph Berger in the celebrated Playboy club-liquor licensing case. The Supreme Court ruled that New York's wiretapping law was unconstitutional, largely because it was so broad in its scope that it enabled police to violate an individual's right to privacy.

The Court of Appeals decreed by a 6-1 vote Thursday that the Berger decision could not be applied to court-authorized wiretaps properly obtained before the high court's decision.

In a majority opinion, Associate Judge Kenneth B. Keating found that the wiretaps used in the Kaiser case conformed to requirements of the state law.

He declared: "Applying these standards in the case at bar, we are led to the conclusion that the Berger decision should be given only prospective effect. The purpose of the exclusionary rule, to which Berger made eavesdropping evidence subject, is deterrent of future police conduct."

"Under these circumstances we hold that Berger should be held applicable only to those cases in which the orders were issued after the date of that decision."

Keating went on to state that wiretapping was an essential police weapon in combating crime.

Clark Urged To Run As Favorite Son

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., has been asked to run as a "favorite son" candidate against President Johnson in next year's primary to withhold first ballot support from Johnson at the 1968 Democratic convention.

In a Dec. 4 letter, Citizens for Kennedy in 1968 asked Clark to "offer Pennsylvania voters a well known national figure that they might rally behind in order to personalize their protest and their anguish" over Johnson's Vietnam policies.

Citizens for Kennedy is a New York City-based group drumming support for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D.N.Y., as the 1968 Democratic presidential nominee instead of Johnson.

Clark's Washington office said Thursday there would be no immediate comment but that a statement might be made later.

In announcing his candidacy for re-election Nov. 21, Clark reaffirmed, however, his support for Johnson for re-election. In the event Clark declines to oppose Johnson, Citizens for Kennedy apparently will try to place the New York senator's name on the Pennsylvania ballot.

Dr. Martin Shepard, group co-chairman, said Thursday his group circulated letters among its Pennsylvania supporters two weeks ago asking their help in getting Kennedy's name entered in the Pennsylvania primary.

"To enter Sen. Kennedy we need only gather the names of 100 registered Democrats in each of 10 counties," Shepard said. "Volunteers to collect the names have already come forward from eight counties. I've no doubt we'll find them in two more."

Must Notify Bureau Of New Addresses

Unless Pennsylvania motorists who have moved during this past year inform the Bureau of Motor Vehicles of their new addresses immediately, they will not receive their registration renewal forms which will be mailed on January 25, 1968, according to Warner M. Depuy, Secretary of Revenue.

He further stated that since it takes a certain amount of time to make the necessary changes, those who put off letting the Bureau know of their new addresses can expect a delay in delivery of their forms. Depuy emphasized this should be done at once.

Motorists are required, by law, to notify the Bureau of any change of address within 15 days.

Change of address forms are available free of charge from justices of the peace; magistrates, notaries public, motor clubs, police stations, car dealers, official inspection stations or by writing to the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Harrisburg, Penna., 17127.

The commercial barrel is used in much the same form as in the days of antiquity.

Elliott Falk Gets New Job

HARRISBURG (AP) — Elliott G. Falk, of Harrisburg, whose departure from an executive post with the General State Authority last week generated political controversy, was hired Thursday by a Democratic-controlled state agency.

Auditor Gen. Grace M. Sloan announced the appointment of Falk to a $19,664 job in her department as director of audits. The GSA is an agency under the Republican administration of Gov. Shafer. Falk resigned as deputy last week, attributing his action to policy differences with Executive Director Robert Kunzig.

Kunzig denied any knowledge of a policy dispute when questioned by Democratic Senate Minority Leader Ernest P. Kline

Titusville Woman Overcome by Smoke

TITUSVILLE — Apparently overcome by smoke, an elderly woman died after a fire at her home here early yesterday morning.

Mrs. Mary Platt, an invalid, was rescued by two men who live in her duplex, but was dead on arrival at Titusville Hospital.

Mrs. Platt, who was about 80, had been living alone.

David Cross and his brother-in-law, Ray Kellogg, who lived in the other part of the duplex smelled smoke and broke into the Platt apartment. They carried the elderly woman out but she could not be revived.

The fire apparently started in the bathroom of Mrs. Platt's home.

at the last GSA meeting. Gov. Shafer, president of the authority, ordered its personnel committee to make a report at the next meeting.

Farmers Receive 1% More

HARRISBURG -- Prices state farmers received were up one per cent during November because of increased prices for fruit, milk and eggs, the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service says.

Apples were up 26 cents a bushel, milk up a fraction of a cent a quart (5 cents per 46 1/2 quarts), and eggs up 3 cents a dozen.

Most other items were down or unchanged from October. Hogs at $18.30 a hundredweight were off $1, while slaughter cows dropped $1.30 to $15.30. Steers and heifers were down 60 cents, calves down 40 cents, and lambs down 20 cents.

Grain prices, with the exception of corn, remained steady. Wheat and oats were unchanged at $1.27 and 78 cents a bushel, while barley and rye were up a penny to 98 cents and $1.

Corn, at $1.12 a bushel, was 15 cents lower than in October and 38 cents less than in November of last year. The November corn price was the lowest in six years.

In comparison with prices received a year ago, eggs were down 12 cents a dozen, apples up 6 cents a bushel, potatoes down 75 cents a hundredweight, broilers down one-half cent a pound, hogs down $2.80 a hundredweight, and steers and heifers up 60 cents a hundredweight.

McCarthy Opens Campaign in Wisc.

MADISON, Wisc., — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota will open his campaign in the Wisconsin Presidential primary Friday with a speech at the University of Wisconsin, a center of opposition to President Johnson's Vietnam policies.

Unless McCarthy decides to enter the New Hampshire primary March 12, the primary in Wisconsin April 2 will provide the first confrontation between the President and his Democratic challenger for the 1968 nomination.

Wisconsin could provide the first confrontation anyway. Johnson could settle for a stand-in candidate in New Hampshire, will be on the ballot here unless he declares himself uninterested.

Capuchin Friar Calls Lay Brothers Irresponsible

CUMBERLAND, Md. (AP)—A Capuchin friar criticized 19 lay brothers of the order Thursday for their "irresponsible statements" in a letter they wrote Gov. Spiro T. Agnew about a guilty verdict in a murder case.

"Speaking for the parish priests, I must point out that the letter... in no way expressed the opinion of the priests of the parish..." said the Rev. Guy Golden, pastor of Saints Peter and Paul Catholic Church.

"While admitting the right of American citizens to protest or disagree, priests of the parish deplore the irresponsible statements in the letter impugning the integrity of the court and investigating authorities of Allegany County, Md."

"It is unfortunate that with no background in theology or philosophy or law, they made an unwarranted attack on the court and the investigating authorities."

The lay brothers, in a training center the Capuchins operate at their monastery adjacent to the church, asked the governor not to intervene in a death sentence imposed last month on Gary Lee Miller, 17, in Allegany County Circuit Court. He was convicted of murder in the slaying last May of Miss Judy Ziegler, 20, of Salisbury, Pa.

"We protest this decision given by the judges as being harsh and unrealistic," said their letter made public last Monday.

"We question the justification of capital punishment, first of all, and in this particular case the extenuating circumstances make such a verdict completely unthinkable. Such a verdict as meted out distorts the purpose of our courts and society."

Father Golden said the 19 had been identified as friars through "a logical but erroneous deduction." He said their ages range from 19 to 24 and nine of them are not friars but "merely candidates seeking admission to the order."

"The remainder," he said, "are lay brothers in temporary vows (three years) who have been in the order two or three years."

Calls Lack of Credibility Big Issue in '68 Election

PITTSBURGH (AP)—House Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford said Thursday he thinks the Johnson administration's "lack of credibility" will be one of the big issues during the 1968 presidential election year.

The Michigan Republican, here for a GOP fund raising breakfast, told newsmen he hopes the Republican Party won't make a political issue out of the Vietnam War.

"The lack of credibility of this administration will be a major issue in 1968," he said. "In addition, inflation, cost of living, high interest rates—this will be an issue."

"The White House," he said, "does have the mechanism to control or to effectively fight inflation, but this administration has refused to use their own economic tools that can be used effectively against high interest rates and the cost of living."

"If the war is still going on..." he said, "I think the American people will be asking a great many questions as to how we got into it and who might have been responsible. They also will make searching inquiry as to why we're not doing better, why we're not doing this, why we're not doing that."

In reply to a question, he said he had no word that Secretary of State Rusk will be leaving the Cabinet.

working for McCarthy unless Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., changes his mind and seeks the nomination.

There is general agreement among politicians that McCarthy's candidacy will cut more deeply into Johnson's primary vote than a nebulous "no" vote would have done.

Private estimates of the Minnesota Democrat's potential in Wisconsin range up to 40 percent of the Democratic vote.

"If he gets hold of all the anti-Johnson vote that's around, he could do very well in most of Wisconsin," Rep. Henry S. Ruess, D-Wisc., said in a telephone interview from Washington Thursday.

Ruess stopped short of endorsing McCarthy, but said he held himself "open" to do so after the senator develops the issues in the campaign.

Carley, a dove, and other party regulars in state posts are putting party allegiance first and supporting the President.

Supporters of Richard M. Nixon are happy to have McCarthy in the race. Lack of a Democratic primary contest could have meant considerable "crossover" by Democrats and liberal independents to vote against Nixon in the Republican primary, said John Maciver, the former vice president's campaign manager for the state.

Victory in Wisconsin is crucial for Nixon, Maciver said. 2,000 people were now working for Nixon, with every congressional district, all populous counties, and the 16 largest cities organized, some all the way down to the neighborhood level.

Wilbur Renk, Michigan Gov. George Romney's manager for Wisconsin, said McCarthy's candidacy would hurt Romney's chances by eliminating crossover votes, traditionally heavy in Wisconsin when one party lacks a spirited primary contest.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles of Wisconsin is maintaining a neutral stance, but his key backers now laboring for Nixon include Maciver; William Kraus, the governor's 1966 state campaign manager; and the Milwaukee public relations and advertising firm of McDonald-Davis-Schmidt, Inc.

Nixon's major worry in Wisconsin is that Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, whose name will be on the ballot under the state's new open-primary law, may change his mind and campaign here.

Reagan is popular among Wisconsin Republicans, but Don L. Taylor, who heads the Wisconsin Regan for President Club, said today that he does not expect Reagan to campaign.
